

This Week

Index
News Calendar.....	2
Sports.....	4
Opinion.....	8
Entertainment.....	13
Events Calendar.....	18

Tom Bradley to speak on South Lawn
page 2

Harrison breaks school record, CSUS wins!
page 4

The STATE HORNET

VOLUME 40, NUMBER 5

California State University, Sacramento

OCTOBER 1, 1986

Kids' center is rebuilt for fall '87

by Diane Kirkish
Staff Writer

A new CSUS child care center, designed to accommodate almost double the number of children currently served, should be completed by September, 1987, according to David Bush, executive director of Associated Students, Inc.

The Chancellor's Office must approve the tentative plans before construction can begin on the facility, which will be located on the same site as the former child care center.

The original center is located near the recycling center, near Jed Smith Drive and College Town. It continues to provide services to as many families as possible. According to center staff, a maximum of 52 preschool-age and 32 infant and toddler-age children per hour can be cared for under the temporary arrangements.

The new center will have expanded classroom space and will accommodate 133 children per hour. The cost will vary according to the

• Please see KIDS, page 2
State loan program

Hostage recovered in Coke-Pepsi War

Last week, bored dorm dwellers kidnapped a Coke machine and held it hostage in their bedroom in Jenkins Hall. The kidnappers were arrested and immediately released.

Group indignant Fee war continues

by Garth Stapley
Staff Writer

A group called Students Against Fraudulent Education (SAFE) has been formed by students protesting CSUS President Donald Gerth's approval of the controversial student activities fee increase that was passed in a special election last spring.

"Basically, he (Gerth) is condoning all the fraud and corruption that went on even though he knows it's true," said Albert Braden, president and founder of SAFE.

Braden, a junior and computer science major, filed an appeal petition last May which questioned the validity of the fee increase election. The appeal was upheld by the Associated Students, Inc. (ASI) Board of Justice which, on May 22, issued a writ of prohibition ordering ASI officials not to implement the increase.

"But President Gerth isn't bound by that and he chose to ignore the proof that there was fraud in this election and go ahead and put his stamp of approval on it," Braden said.

The fee increase, which will nearly double CSUS' athletic budget, now awaits approval by W. Ann Reynolds, the chancellor of the CSU system, in Long Beach.

"(The fee increase) is a part of the nurturing and strengthening of the university," Gerth said in a statement released Sept. 19. "(It's) sensible and provides a basis for the fiscal good health of the Associated Students."

Braden and his supporters are now preparing to circulate a petition aimed at repealing the fee increase by placing a measure on the ballot in the ASI fall election.

"ASI needs an increase, but I want an election that's done right, done properly and legally," ASI Senator Marta Sala said. "I experienced the unfairness of the student judicial system and being a government major, it upset me."

"If they want to spend their money on athletics that's fine," Braden said. "But let them do it with their own money and not steal money

• Please see FEE, page 6

Student teachers can try for a bite of California's APLE

by Marcus Kelly
Staff Writer

A unique program is being offered at CSUS and other colleges that will help students pay off their loans once they become public school teachers, according to California Student Aid Commission (CSAC) consultant Kent Harber.

The Assumption Program of Loans for Education (APLE) is designed to stave off a possible teacher shortage in California.

"Teaching is so important in society that the state is willing to award solid efforts," CSAC Deputy Director of Legislation and Public Information Greg Golluhur said.

APLE will provide up to $8,000 in loan assumption payments over a three-year span to eligible participants. Harber, who runs the APLE program, describes it as a "partnership between the participant and the state," whereby the student agrees to become a teacher and the state agrees to help repay his or her loan debt.

To get a piece of the APLE pie, Harber says a student must be willing to teach in a low income area school or become a math, science or bilingual education teacher. Also the students must have at least one student loan by the time they start teaching. Lastly, students must be recommended by their school in order to receive one of the limited applications.

According to Associate Dean of Education, David Raske, who is the APLE contact person at CSUS, interested students need to complete and return a preliminary application to room 206, in the Education building by Oct. 10.

To be considered as an APLE candidate, a student must have completed 60 units and currently be enrolled in 10 units. They must also promise to obtain a California teaching credential and then to teach in the state's K-12 system. APLE is not available to those who already possess a credential.

With only 19 annual slots at CSUS and 500 statewide, the program is expected to be competitive.

"We are selecting for excellence," Harber said.

"It (APLE) is not just to increase the overall quantity of teachers, but to recruit gifted persons into public school teaching," he said. Golluhur agrees. "We want to give the highly motivated the wherewithal to succeed," he said.

To select 19 out of possibly hundreds of candidates, Raske will establish a committee to screen the applicants. The committee will look at several criteria, including GPA, letters of recommendation and an essay explaining "Why You Wish to Teach," according to application materials.

If APLE proves to help solve the teacher-shortage problem in the state, more money will be made available to it. "Growth depends on success," Golluhur said.

For more information contact the School of Education at 278-6402.

Sister's selfless gift brings student more than new chance at life

by Garth Stapley
Staff Writer

David and Cathy Hamilton have more in common than most brothers and sisters, besides attending the same university, they both have one of Cathy's kidneys.

In June 1985, Cathy served as an organ donor for her brother, David, who had been suffering from a kidney disease that claimed both of his own. The human body requires only one kidney to perform filtering and elimination functions.

"Now I feel better than ever," David, 18, a freshman at CSUS, said. "Only with a woman's organ, now I sometimes worry about shaving my armpits or something."

David first contracted the disease at the age of 4, when three operations were necessary to keep him alive. Until last year, he had been unaware of the growing disease that would eventually threaten his life.

"He hadn't been struggling at all until last year," Cathy, 24, a senior majoring in accounting at CSUS, said. "But then when his kidneys stopped working and he was bordering comatose, it was really scary." David did not go to the bathroom for 1½ months when his kidneys failed.

"I remember seeing him lying in the hospital, sweating, with this tube coming out of his chest. His eyes were half-opened and his whole body would twitch with every heartbeat, even his lips."

"I wanted to do it — I was excited to do it for him," Cathy said. "He was so sick and I couldn't see him go through life like that. Who wouldn't do it for her brother?"

After doctors determined that a transplant was necessary, the other members of David's family were tested for tissue match-ups to see who the closest donor would be. Both his parents and Cathy were "half-matches," while their two brothers' tissues did not match David's at all. Pam, their 14 year-old sister, was not considered because organ donors must be at least 18.

"Dad wanted to do it (donate the organ), saying that I had so much more to do in life than he, like finishing school, having children, and other things," Cathy said.

"But it was up to David and he knew that it would be hard on my parents for Dad to miss that much work because of the time required for recuperation and all. The timing was perfect for me because it all happened over the summer when I wasn't in school, and the doctors said that the loss of one kidney wouldn't affect me in any of the ways Dad was worried about."

"So David finally chose me. I wasn't really scared, but I was excited. I knew that everything would be okay."

After more than a year with no apparent problems, David has a 95 percent chance that his body will never reject the kidney, a common concern for organ recipients.

"She gave me a darn good kidney," David said with a smile. "But I still had to miss my junior prom because of it. My date came to visit me in the hospital with her formal on, and we're still together."

David and Cathy share an apartment with their brother Dennis, 22, a psychology major, at CSUS.

Cathy and David Hamilton have bridged the sibling gap.

"Dennis used to come in after surgery and crack joke after joke just to make us laugh, and we would get so mad because it hurt so bad," Cathy said.

Both Hamiltons agree that the experience has brought added meaning to their relationship. "I used to beat on her, like any brother," David said with a grin, but now we're pretty close."

"Our family is the type that will jokingly gang up on someone to give them a hard time. But now, when it's Cathy's turn I usually back off and even start defending her. It's not really a duty or an obligation, but sort of a payback to let her know that I appreciate the gesture."

"Sure, it's brought us closer, but for our whole family, not just for us."

"It hurt, and I was sick for a long time afterward even

• Please see SIBLINGS, page 2

calendar

Monday Wednesday Friday
Tuesday Thursday

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, who is running for California governor, will speak on the South Lawn of the University Union at 12:30 p.m. on Oct. 1. If it rains, the speech will be held in the main gym. There may be a press conference following the speech.

"Women's Right to Choose," a pro-choice panel, will have representatives from the American Civil Liberties Union, the Northern California Pro-Choice Coalition, the women's studies department at CSUS, the Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, and Planned Parenthood. Topics will include funding, parental consent and international issues. It will be held in the Redwood Room, U.U., Oct. 3, at noon. For more info, call 278-7388.

All new and returning CSUS students need to present proof of immunization against measles and rubella to the Student Health Center by Oct. 17, to avoid the penalty resulting in denial of spring semester registration.

Measles and rubella shots are being given at the Student Health Center from 8-10 a.m. and 3-4 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays.

Free counseling services are available to Sacramento area residents at the CSUS Community Counseling Center. The Center, which is open weekdays, offers full counseling services, including personal, marriage, family, educational and vocational counseling. Call 278-6252 for more information or an appointment.

The CSUS Chess Club meets every Monday night from 7 to 11 p.m. in Anthropology 304. No fee. Bring your own chess set.

The "Nicaragua in Perspective" symposium on Oct. 1, will be held from 9-11 a.m. in the Forest Suite, U.U. Guest speakers will be Cliff Anderson, professor of philosophy, Lynn Cooper, professor of women's studies, and Duane Campbell, professor of education.

The film "In the Nuclear Shadow" will be shown at the People Reaching Out for Peace meeting Oct. 22, at 11 a.m. in the El Dorado Room, U.U.

In recognition of Fire Prevention Month, Sacramento County Fire Departments will hold a Fire Prevention Awareness Day Oct. 18, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fire fighting techniques, smoke detectors and new and antique fire equipment will be on display in Old Sac.

Assemblyman Lloyd Connolly of Sacramento will speak on Proposition 65, the Toxics Initiative, "How Will It Help Us?" The speech will be Oct. 6, at 11 a.m. in the Redwood Room, U.U.

Learn how and why public relations is integrated with the government Oct. 2. John Angus, guest speaker and government relations representative for PG&E will speak at the SSC, Room 315 from 1-10 to 2:25 p.m. on Oct. 2.

Sacramento City College Community Education will offer a Humor Workshop. It will discuss sources of humor in everyday life. The workshop meets Oct. 18, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The fee is $29. For more info call 449-7443.

The "Kick the Stress Habit" seminar, presented by Joan Guertin at 4441 Fruitridge Road, will be held on four consecutive Monday nights starting Oct. 6. The cost is $35. Meetings will last from 7-10 p.m. For more info, call 457-1550.

Now is the time to make the move... Make "informed choices, set goals and identify majors at the CSUS Testing Center. When: Thursdays, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and 5 p.m.-7 p.m. For more information, drop by CTR-202 or call 278-6296.

Bishop Francis A. Quinn will celebrate a Mass commemorating World Food Day Oct. 16, at 7 p.m. at the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament, 11th and K Streets. Donations of Thanksgiving food items and money will be accepted for distribution to needy families in the downtown area.

Run in the Sacramento County Fire Department's 3rd Annual Fire House to Fire House 6K Run on Oct. 18, at 9 a.m. For more info call 449-5416.

Kids

• continued from page 1

child's age, Bush said. Generally it will be about $17 per day, which includes meals. Many parents qualify for a subsidy from the state, he said.

The center will be available to all students and faculty members at CSUS, but parents should be prepared for a waiting list.

"We won't be able to serve all the parents who want the center's services," Bush said, "but the new center will be much larger than the present one."

The new center will keep the same hours as the present center, 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Friday. There are currently some openings in the late afternoon, according to center staff.

The new facility, which will cost more than $1 million, will be financed by the Children's Building Fund. Every semester, the fund receives $2.50 from each student's tuition fees.

Although construction has not yet begun on the new center, Bush encourages parents not to be discouraged.

"The plans are moving along as scheduled; it's just a matter of reviewing the plans thoroughly to have a well-developed center," he said.

Siblings

• continued from page 1

though David got better almost immediately," Cathy said. "But I would do it again, even knowing now what I had to go through."

"I love her — it's obvious," David said. "I mean, every brother loves his sister, but it's different. It was just the ultimate gift, the ultimate act that you could perform to show someone that you love them."

Jumper cables loaned free of charge

The Department of Public Safety has jumper cables available to students on a check-out basis. In exchange for your driver's license, the department will loan out a set of jumper cables. The department will not provide the vehicle to transfer the charge, but it is no longer necessary to call a tow truck to get a service jump. The Department of Public Safety is located in the Public Service Building on Jed Smith Drive, just south of the old child care center.

EAST J BARBERS
we specialize in all styles
"up to date cuts"
Only $6.00
Serving the Campus Community for 20 years
4744 J Street 451-0415

CHEAP THRILLS
Women & Men's Vintage/Trendy Clothing 1900-1999
Fall Arrivals
BIG Sweaters
40's jackets, coats & shirts men's sport coats & 4 women
✓ Out "OTHERSIDE"
CASH FOR CLOTHING & JEWELRY
1217 21st St. 446-1366
Monday thru Saturday, 11 a.m.-6 p.m.

SELF SERVICE WORD PROCESSING
Easily Edit Changes & Updates.
Letter Quality Printing
20¢ /page
WordPerfect WordStar MS Word
$1.00 Min.
IBM PC-XT Compatible
3.50/hr Mon-Fri (10-5)
2.50/hr Mon-Fri (5-8) & Sat (10-6)
infoplex computer center
938 University Ave. Across The Footbridge From CSUS 921-6512

La Riviera Veterinary Clinic Special
50% OFF all vaccines Friday 2-5:15 p.m. with coupon only
Call for Appointment

• Cat Spays	from $17.50	• Dog Spays	from $25
• Declaw	$30	• Dog Neuters	from $22.50
• Cat Neuters	$10	• Heartworm Testing	$10
• Leukemia Shots	$10	• Leukemia Testing	$12
• Intestinal Parasite Exam	$4

All spay & neuter prices included FREE ear cleaning, nail trim and flea treatment.
Call: La Riviera Veterinary Clinic
7890 La Riviera Dr., Sacto. 383-8997
(Next to Foxy Lox in the College Town Plaza)
This coupon required for all discount prices. Expires 12/31/86

TYPING WORD PROCESSING
On Campus
ASI TYPING SERVICE
University Union
3rd floor
PROFESSIONAL • FAST • ACCURATE
Come in or call
278-6276 or 278-7252

Juniors, Seniors & Grads...
GIVE YOURSELF SOME CREDIT!
APPLY NOW FOR YOUR VERY OWN...

- Bring a photocopy of your School I.D.
  - No cosigner required
- APPLY NOW ON CAMPUS!

Date: Oct. 1 to Oct. 15
Time: 10 a.m.-4 p.m.
Place: Library Breezeway

CITIBANK
Citibank (South Dakota), N.A. Member FDIC

The members of Delta Gamma would like to congratulate our new fall pledge class who we believe pledge class to be the best ever!

We you all The

SS Delta Gamma

1986 Fall Pledge Class

SS Delta Gamma

SS Delta Gamma

ENGINEERING & COMPUTER SCIENCE STUDENTS & FACULTY ONLY...

BACHELORS

Cap Gown & Tassel $20
Cap.....$5
Gown.....$12
Tassel.....$3

MASTERS

Cap Gown Hood Tassel $35
Cap.....$5
Gown.....$12
Tassel.....$3
Hood.....$15

☆ Order no later than October 24, 1986

* Faculty please see Madelyn 278-6276 ASI Bus. Office

news briefs

Witnesses needed

Carl Perry, CSUS public safety investigator, is asking students for some help concerning last week's "Bike vs. car" story in the The State Hornet. Perry is looking for witnesses to the accident, which occurred on Jed Smith Drive near the Guy West Bridge at approximately 5:50 p.m., Sept. 22. Perry can be reached at extension 6851. If he is not there, leave a message, or stop by the Public Safety Department.

Sharp new director welcomed

On Sept. 15, 1986, CSUS welcomed Dr. Gerald Sharp, the new director of Institutional Studies, with a full day of work.

The role of director of Institutional Studies, formerly Institutional Research, is very similar to the position Sharp held at West Valley College in Saratoga, and he feels well-prepared for his new job in Sacramento.

The responsibilities of this job include the research of CSUS' student body that will affect policy making at the departmental and executive levels, and the planning and the budgeting for the university each year. Sharp is also responsible for providing the information required for maintaining the routine state reports that deal with the levels of enrollment within different groups on campus, the credits given in each department, and the faculty work load.

Sharp is especially interested in designing studies and helping people learn how to collect their own data. This he said, "lets us move on to new things so we can anticipate the needs of the students as they emerge."

One example of how this is done is the Institutional Studies' contact with the Education Equity Committee, an on-campus task force that is concerned with the graduation of minorities. This organization deals with the whole CSU system, and the Institutional Studies office offers the Education Equity Committee data and guidance in conducting its own research.

Dr. Gerald Sharp, new director of institutional Studies at CSUS.

The new director of Institutional Studies is glad to get back into the university environment. He likes living in Sacramento better than in the Silicon Valley because he enjoys the feeling of community here. With an easy smile, Sharp summed up his feelings, saying, "There are so few barriers to getting involved in the community."

Once upon a time . . .

When a con artist strikes, "the victims tend to be generous people," said Thomas Pyne, assistant to the president of CSUS.

Earlier this summer a clean-cut, articulate, tall, young black man approached the Alumni Affairs Office with a "problem." The man, who called himself Christopher Bailey, claimed he had been on vacation in Sacramento when one of his bags was stolen, leaving him with no money and no identification except his passport, which was in a locker at the Greyhound Bus station. Therefore he wanted CSUS to loan him $100 for a bus ticket to get to the San Francisco Airport and to cover a surcharge on his plane ticket to Oxford where he was a student. Bailey's father was the assistant to the vice president of Barclay's Bank in New York, but could not be reached because he also was on vacation.

While the office was processing this information, Bailey stepped out of the building momentarily. Coincidentally, as soon as Bailey left, the Alumni Affairs Office received a telephone call from the Alumni Association of Oxford in Davis, backing up Bailey's story. Nevertheless, the Alumni Affairs Office decided to deny his request for money when it was unable to verify his story.

Bailey's second scenario had an additional twist. The setting was 5:30 a.m. at the house of William Sullivan, dean of arts and sciences, on Sept. 28. A man calling himself Rycardt, claiming to be an agent of Chancellor Reynolds, phoned Sullivan. Rycardt said that he had been unable to contact the biology chair who was in Brooklyn at the time, and had been referred to Sullivan. Rycardt spoke of an Australian student stranded in Sacramento, who needed money to get to his Park Avenue home in New York before returning to school in Oxford.

Rycardt displayed a good knowledge of the California State University system and mentioned many important names, making his story seem plausible. Having no way to verify the story, Sullivan agreed to meet the student at the Greyhound Bus station at 9 a.m. to loan him $100 for the trip home.

When Sullivan arrived, a black man approximately 5'9" and in his 20s, who called himself Christopher Bailey, was there to meet him. Bailey proved once again to be very articulate and knowledgeable. This time he spoke with a perfect Australian accent. Bailey claimed to have just attended an Outstanding Youth of America conference, and showed Sullivan a personal card with the name Christopher Bailey and a Park Avenue address printed on it. Bailey played out the scenario in a way that led Sullivan to suspect nothing. Sullivan later realized it was a scam when in casual conversation, he mentioned Rycardt's name to the chancellor, who denied knowing Rycardt.

Immediately the university started an inquiry, notified Davis, and alerted other campuses. Although they have not found Bailey yet, the police know that the telephone calls to the university were all made from phone booths, some from San Francisco. "We are amazed at the elaborateness of the stories and the knowledge shown by Bailey," CSUS campus detective Carl Perry said.

A similar situation has not occurred at CSUS before or since last summer, but it is still wise to be cautious when people ask for money. "We have a lot of people trying to con students out of small amounts of money," Perry remarked. His advice to students is to refuse to give anyone money unless his or her need is verifiable.

• Please see BRIEFS, page 7

3:30-7
FRIDAY
Happy Hour
LONG BIG BEERS ISLAND TEAS
$1.75
OR 3 Burgers
3 Tacos $1

the Graduate

900 UNIVERSITY AVENUE 922-0335

Back to School!

ALL COTTON FUTON

Full $99
Compare at $149

100% COTTON FUTONS

THE BASIC WATERBED

$129

Complete System

FUTON COUCH BED

Solid Wood - Handcrafted with honey lacquered finish

$199
Compare at $269
Futon Optional

WHITE IRON & BRASS DAYBED FRAMES

starting at $99

Daybed Comforter Bedding ensembles from $59.95

CONVERTIBLE SLEEP COUCHES

$199

compare at $299
A dream for you and your over-night guests

Student Specials

Air Beds

$99

Queen compare at $149 durable Lightweight Portable

Mattress Pads

1/2 Off any size

$20 Off

Waterbed Sheet Sets $19.95 any size

Pillows

1/2 Off any size starting at $4.95

I-80 AT EL CAMINO
929-1232

La Brie's
WATERBEDS

FREE FREE FREE
Schick Super II Razor
School Name _____ School Colors! _____
Plus...
A chance to win a Schick Travel Bag

The Book Depot
Just fill out the coupon and bring it to to receive your special razor.
One per Student
Available only at:

STORE COUPON

Schick Super II

To receive your free school razor, first fill in the required information. Then bring this coupon to the bookstore. Hurry! quantities are limited. ONE PER STUDENT ONLY.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip Code _____
Phone # ( ) _____

This coupon is your entry to the Schick Super II Travel Bag Sweepstakes.

THE BOOK DEPOT
7840 La Riviera Drive
College Town Plaza
(916) 381-3961
Serving the CSUS campus since 1976.

Hornet

Sports
and leisure

Hornets even record with thrashing of Humboldt

Harrison breaks two school rushing recordsby Jeanne Smith
Staff Writer

Football coach Bob Mattos celebrated his 45th birthday Saturday night by watching his team score 45 points when CSUS registered its first football win of the season, a 45-17 victory over Humboldt State.

The most valuable player of the game was definitely fullback Rob Harrison, who ran over the Lumberjacks for 247 yards on 23 carries, breaking former Cincinnati Bengal John Farley's CSUS school record of 215 yards set against CSU Chico in 1980. Harrison scored three rushing touchdowns, one of which was an 88-yarder in the second quarter that broke another Farley record. Two years ago, Farley had an 87-yard run against Humboldt State.

During the first 15 minutes of the game, the Hornets scored every time they got their hands on the ball. Quarterback Angelo Oliva spotted Mark Young which resulted in a 6-yard touchdown pass less than five minutes into the game. Eighteen seconds later, Humboldt quarterback Matt Peterson, under heavy pressure from a blitzing Luke Triplett, threw an interception to linebacker Tuata Mauga. Mauga ran the ball 27 yards for a touchdown, giving the Hornets a 14-0 lead.

Peterson suffered a concussion and Humboldt coach Mike Dolby brought in freshman Brent Spurlin. Spurlin quickly found out what it's like to flail when one of his passes was deflected and intercepted by Hornet lineman Chris Demps. That made a 40-yard field goal by Matt Nilsson possible.

• Please see HORNETS, page 7

On the rocky road to CSU Humboldt with three football fanatics

Head football coach Bob Mattos, left, gives directions to the Road Warriors, left to right, Tom Gousios and Russ Light and top Dave Petersen. The trio has been driving to all of the team's away games in Gousios' automobile.

You're only young once philosophy leads Road Warriors to away gamesby Brad Melin
Editorial Staff

When the 1986 Hornet football schedule was announced earlier this year, some people complained, some gasped and others just shook their heads.

Out of 11 games on that schedule, only four would be at home, and Sacramento football fans knew that seeing the Hornets play in person this season would be difficult.

But for three CSUS students, the games so far from home were just a reason to get away for the weekend. These three students, Russ Light, Dave Petersen and Tom Gousios, have made it to all three of the Hornets' games this year, including a 16-hour drive one way to Grand Junction, Colo. two weeks ago to see the Hornets challenge Mesa College. Other trips so far this year include a 30-mile jog to Stockton and the University of the Pacific and a five-hour drive to Arcata and Humboldt State last Saturday.

The "Road Warriors," as head football coach Bob Mattos calls them, plan to attend every game this year which will add approximately 6,000 miles to the odometer of Gousios' 1972 2002 BMW. The Colorado trip alone was a total of 2,100 miles.

Call it youthful exuberance that leads these three on the trips. They have no buddies or relatives on the team. They didn't even know Mattos until the Wednesday before the Colorado game at which time Light appeared in the coach's office and asked for detailed directions to Grand Junction. He was nearly laughed out of the room.

But when the Road Warriors knocked on the coach's hotel-room door on game day, it was evident the plan was no joke. Mattos immediately rewarded the guys with football caps and passes to watch the game on the sideline.

"It's something we've got to get out of our system," said Light, a graduating senior in business finance. "We'll be out of school soon and you're only young once. This was just kind of an impulse. We just decided to go for it this fall."

Petersen, a senior business management major, added, "You're only going to get the opportunity to do

• Please see WARRIORS, page 5

Setter Chris Seifert supplies Tevani Scott (6) with the makings for a spike while Dee Dee Lewis (10) looks on. The Hornets are in their brand new green and gold uniforms.

Volleyballers fail to overcome
Reno's home-court advantageby Todd Ferrario
Staff Writer

The CSUS volleyball team found a tough opponent in Saturday's University of Nevada, Reno match after dominating CSU Bakersfield the night before.

The Hornets defeated Bakersfield in four games with scores of 11-15, 15-7, 15-8, 16-14. The loss to Reno in three games gave the Hornets a 6-6 overall record for the year. Scores of the Reno match were 15-9, 15-10, 15-13.

CSUS came out Friday with a slow first game against the Roadrunners, which put the Hornets down one game to zero. The spikers came out in the second game and looked like a new team, showing a much stronger defense along with a very consistent and powerful offense. This play was continued in the next two games with the strong play of sophomore setter Chris Seifert leading the way. Seifert paired with team captain and outside hitter Tevani Scott for a considerable portion of the Hornets' points.

The fourth and deciding game was by far the closest and hardest-fought game of the evening, as evidenced by the final score. The Hornets jumped out to an early 8-2 lead because of excellent serving by senior Kim Beal. Beal is not known for her serving or backrow play, but she has become one of the most ferocious weapons from the Hornets' back line this year. The intensity of both teams heated up as the score became tied at 14.

Seifert put down a kill on a runaway Roadrunner ball which sealed the victory for the Hornets. After the match, the tension barely loosened as the Hornets knew they had little time to rest before Saturday's Reno match.

The first game in Reno was a well-fought game in which the Wolfpack came out on top. Wolfpack fans went crazy by chanting "Wolfpack, Wolfpack..." so loudly that CSUS had trouble communicating on the court.

The Hornets fought hard but were defeated in the next two games, which gave Reno the match and reversed the outcome of a previous encounter this year.

Although the Hornet spikers were beaten, senior Scott said "quite a few people came to me and said this was one of our best matches of the season."

CSUS is playing well and is looking forward to a spot in the national rankings this year.

The Hornets' next match will be this Friday and Saturday at the Portland State Invitational in Portland.

Slade takes fourth in Stanislaus

by Bob Barbeau
Staff Writer

This past weekend, the CSUS cross-country team competed in the Stanislaus Invitational at CSC Stanislaus near Turlock. On the men's side, the Hornets placed third as a team out of four competing schools. CSU Hayward won the five-mile event, far outdistancing second place UC Davis. Stanislaus brought up the rear.

Darin Slade placed fourth with a time of 25 minutes, 14 seconds, and Dean Rinde (same time), fifth for the Hornets. Hayward had all three of the top spots. Other CSUS finishers were: Tom Moore (25:51) in 11th place, Tim Ketron (26:38) in 21st, Reggie Brown (27:05) in 24th, and Steve Whitehead (27:21) in 25th.

On the women's side, Davis took first overall, followed by Colorado College, Mills College, and Hayward.

The women's event is the 5,000 meter. The Hornets did not have enough runners to constitute an official team, but they did turn in some good times. Colleen Strout finished seventh overall with a time of 18:31. Deonne Self (19:21) finished 13th, Lidia Peras (19:48) 18th, and Jocelyn Valentine (20:10) 24th.

The next meet for the teams is this Saturday at Stanford University starting at 10 a.m. UC Irvine, CSU Fresno and CSUS are just three of approximately 20 teams which will be competing.

Ruggers split pair with McGeorge

by Brad Melin
Editorial Staff

The rugby club at CSUS split a pair of matches Sunday with the McGeorge School of Law in the 1986 season opener.

CSUS, nicknamed the Stingers, won the first match of the day 4-0 with John Costello scoring a try, which is fairly equivalent to a touchdown in football. In the second game, McGeorge won 8-0. Each match consisted of two 20-minute halves.

Other standouts for CSUS were Gary Deleon and Tim Hogan. Both Deleon and Hogan started their rugby careers with CSUS but now also play for the Sacramento Capitals.

McGeorge was victorious over CSUS in a match last year.

"They (McGeorge) commented on how much our play has improved," club President Anthony Malpartida said. "Contrary to what one might suppose from law students, they have a good program. They beat Stanford's B team last year."

Malpartida was also impressed with both player and fan turnout for the match with CSUS dressing 45 players and McGeorge 50. Some 50 fans saw the game which conflicted with NFL football games.

After the game, the teams and "rigger huggers," as Malpartida calls them, had the traditional celebration at the Alumni Grove on the American River near the college. Spaghetti was the main course and two kegs of beer were the appetizer.

The Stingers play their next match against CSU Chico on the intramural field Oct. 19. Goal posts were constructed from 2-inch PVC pipes for the match Sunday, which allowed for the first match ever to be played on the CSUS campus.

UC Berkeley (Feb. 7) and Stanford (Feb. 14) were added to the schedule of the rugby club this year. The club gets into full swing about that time.

INTRAMURALS

RECREATIONAL
SPORTS

- IM-REC BOWLING SIGN UPS NOW BEING TAKEN IM Sports Office
- REC-SWIM 6-8 P.M. Mon-Fri
Noon - 1 PM Fridays
- REC-JOGGING - Stadium Track
5 - 7 P.M. M-Thurs
- RAQUETBALL COURTS
Mon. & Wed. 6-10 P.M.
Tues. & Thurs. 8-10 P.M.
Fri., Sat. & Sun. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.

REC-IM OFFICE 3rd Floor U.U. Info Hot Line 278-6005

Tourists being offered more than just apples on the hill

by Cameron Billeci
Staff Writer

If "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," then what could an apple a day from mid-September to Christmas mean? It means Apple Hill is once again the autumn mecca for weekend travelers.

For 22 years the Apple Hill farmers have been providing the public with a variety of quality apples at below-market prices.

What started as a loosely-knit group of about 15 farmers has blossomed into the Apple Hill Growers Association with more than 40 members, each selling their individual products on their farms.

Nestled between Placerville and the town of Camino, Apple Hill is less than an hour from Sacramento.

But do not arrive expecting just to sample apples. Apple Hill has a cornucopia of experiences from a train ride on the El Dorado-Boa Vista and Apple Ridge Railroad to wine tasting at Boeger Winery, Miller's Apple Tree Ranch and the famous High Hill Ranch.

There are also nature walks through the pine-studded apple orchards, a museum, and pony rides and fishing for the youngsters. If it's craft-work you fancy, there is no better way to start your holiday shopping than crunching through an apple and wandering through the maze of handmade items artisans have dreamed up. The food lover will soon find out that apples are not the only palatable nourishment being offered. Pears, peaches, persimmons, plums, squash, pumpkins, berries, cherries, grapes and nuts are also available.

For those who like to sample and take home some old-fashioned, down-home country cooking, many farmers and their wives have their own kitchens where they bake luscious pies, strudel and dumplings, apple crisp and fritters, jams and jellies, apple butter and, of course, candied and caramel apples.

The pies, mountainous by design because they contain three to four giant apples apiece (that's about four pounds), are a sinfully delicious experience. Their flaky outsides are bathed in egg white which gives them a rich golden brown crust. And the smell of fresh-baked apples and the complementing smell of the Sierra foothill pines is just about enough to melt your nose.

Cal Abel, one of the original growers and owner of Abel's Apple Acres said, "The apples are a foothill apple which is a better quality apple and not from out of the state."

"When people taste the apple they know it's the best apple they ever tasted."

It must be true, people have been flocking to his apple stand every year.

People come to Apple Hill for a good day in the country and they know they can get produce fresh from the tree, he said.

His wife, Evelyn, oversees the bakeshop that employs three generations of the Abel family.

For those who enjoy the taste of cider, Bolster's Hilltop Orchards has one of the oldest oak apple presses in the area. There you can witness how the apple is squeezed to

• Please see APPLES, page 7

Festivities on Apple Hill get cooking.

Warriors

• Continued From Page 4

something like this once in your life."

The "backbone" of this clan is the house they share. They call it Munroe Manor after the street they live on, and despite sounding like a fraternity, the guys claim they're GDIs (God damn independents.)

Currently, the trips are being financed entirely by the three, but they have a bet riding with an old roommate that will pay for half of their gasoline expenses if they carry out this crazy charade. That seems almost evident.

"We want an East Coast game," kidded Gousios, a junior computer science major. "When do we play Boston?"

Unfortunately, the Road Warriors are not going to get their dream of an East Coast game this year, but when they make the long haul to Southern California Oct. 25 they should be fairly satisfied. After the 1 p.m. game there, the trio plans to drop in on Las Vegas, which apparently is not a great distance from the playing field.

Before the Southern Utah game, there is Chico State this Saturday, a sprint at two hours driving distance. On Nov. 8 Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo provides a good test at five hours. The Causeway Classic, the annual game with UC Davis played in Davis this year Nov. 15, presents no problems for the Road Warriors at a meager 20 miles.

This fanaticism may not end when the regular season is over. "If we get in a playoff game, we'll take a train out to the Midwest and see the team play," Petersen said.

To pass the time, the trio makes derogatory comments about other drivers on a portable tape recorder, takes photographs of the scenery and stops in various towns along the way.

"The highlight of the Colorado trip was our stop in Winnemucca, Nev.," Light said. "That town just isn't the same since we've gone through it. Basically, we're just animals."

"That makes our trip better to get out there and fire them up. They accept and appreciate it."

— Dave Petersen

At one point, the guys decided to pull out the sleeping bags on an off ramp somewhere between here and Colorado, but the sight of a snake slithering toward them canceled that adventure. Soon they could be leading a caravan to each game. Petersen was required to take his pickup to the Humboldt game to make extra space. They are willing to set up a car pool with anyone interested. The road-trip phone number at Munroe Manor is 483-0764.

"How many cars we need to get there is how many we will take," Petersen said. "The more people the better. It's more fun and it cuts down on costs."

The Road Warriors were Hornet fans before this year, but not to their current extreme.

"We're just coming out to fire up the team, and I think they were pretty fired up that we showed up," said Light.

"That makes our trip better to get out there and fire them up," Petersen said. "They accept and appreciate it."

"I think coach Mattos is in favor of this type of school spirit, and rightfully so," added Light.

I'd like to think the trio isn't just an isolated case, but a symbol of how popular athletics are becoming at CSUS. Whether that's so or not, the Road Warriors don't really care. They just pack up their car and take off for the next game.

Commentary

Activity fees will not cost academics

by Karen Wilcox
Staff Writer

It's hard to get excited about another fee increase. I'm not thrilled about paying an extra $13 in activity fees, but I am excited about improving CSUS athletics. I'm as interested as anyone to know exactly where the money will go, but I'm assuming that it will be put to good use.

I have my own personal agenda, and making CSUS a Division I university is at the top. If that doesn't happen, then I'd like to see the cross country competitors' eligibility checked before the first meet of the year. It would have been nice to have seen more than six people running for CSUS at the Hornet Invitational this year. I'm in no position to judge what else should be done, but I'd be satisfied if it were all neglected to make CSUS a Division I university.

I've heard the argument that education should be the main purpose of this university, and it's a weak argument. Education is what a university is all about. No one's talking about turning CSUS into a training camp, as far as I know. There is no reason to believe that improving athletics would somehow adversely affect other departments. CSUS can keep its academic standards and improve athletics.

Sacramentans are interested in improving this community's sports. The Kings are here. There will be a stadium built, not soon enough, but one day. NFL and professional baseball franchises can move in after that, and I think both will. CSUS belongs to Sacramento, and it's a great place to bring in athletes.

I'm not asking anyone to be happy about paying more money to attend college, but $13 ain't much. My books went up more than that this year, and I will see the Giants win the pennant before I get excited about an expanded book store.

PERMISSION OBTAINED

Professors—if the course materials you want to supply your students extend beyond the copyright limitations, call Kinko's Copyright Permissions Service. We'll give you the help you need.

kinko's

Great copies • Great people

4765 J Street
Sacramento, Ca. 95819
(916) 731-4012

Store Hours
Monday-Friday 7:30 a.m.-9:00 p.m.
Saturday 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.
Sunday 10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.

COPIES • BINDING • PASSPORT PHOTOS • MUCH MORE

WILL EITHER FIND A WAY OR MAKE ONE."

—Hannibal

One misplaced footstep meant death. The locals kept rolling boulders down on top of the army. The men slipped on the ice covering the ground, the animals froze in the snow. Landslides had to be cleared before the elephants could pass.

That's what Hannibal had to deal with when he moved his entire army across narrow, snow-laden tracks that had only been used by migrant tribes. And though the elephants were great pack animals, there were no elephant-sized pathways that crossed the Alps.

But Hannibal kept going, and his army traversed the mountains in only 15 days. They rested for a few days, then went on to conquer Rome.

We think of Hannibal when we look at the mountains of work it's going to take to complete the Hornet Bookstore remodeling. Sometimes it seems like an impossible task. But we realize that we too must find a way—or make one.

One of our tasks is liquidating over 60 cases of general books. In honor of Hannibal, we're having a White Elephant Sale October 1st through 3rd. Books that originally retailed up to $40.00 will sell for $5.50 to $5.00.

So come by the patio outside the Hornet Bookstore this Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and take advantage of this giant clearance sale. Elephants are optional.

General Books WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

October 1-3 8:00 am to 6:00 pm
Hornet Bookstore II

GETAWAY CAR

National Car Rental

Here's how to get away this weekend. Rent a car from National. We have low weekend rates that will make it easy. If you're 18 or older, have a valid drivers license, current student I.D. and a cash deposit. Stop by to fill out a short cash qualification form at least 24-hours in advance. You pay for gas and return car to renting location. Renters under the age of 25 pay an additional $3.00 per day.

We feature GM cars like this Pontiac Grand Am.

Available at:

16th & F Street
Downtown Sacramento
443-8900

The Red Lion Inn
2001 Point West Way
929-0205

Sacramento
Metro Airport
927-3644

Fee

• continued from page 1

from me and other students who need it for other things."

ASI Senate Chair Sandra Samaniego said she is investigating the possibility of negotiating a contract with the athletics department in a measure co-authored by Samaniego and ASI senator Scott Baty.

"He believes it's a good compromise," Samaniego said. "I just hope (this experience) will build communications among the senate. It's not going to be easy — it's going to be tough, and we both realize that, Scott and I."

Baty said he pushed the fee increase because he believed it would help to improve CSUS. "I'm not here to change Sac State, but the kind of campus I would like is a campus more oriented toward student involvement," he said.

"There's a lot of apathy on this campus," Baty said. "(Students) feel that the reason I'm here is to study and that's it. I don't want to be in athletics, student government or a fraternity or sorority or an activist group. I think that anyone who looks at the issues and makes a judgment is right."

Scott Beach, a CSUS graduate student and treasurer of SAFE, said he is considering filing a suit against Baty for "criminal violations" regarding Baty's involvement with the passing of the fee increase.

"(Baty) violated the trust and confidence of every student on this campus," Beach said. "He violated his obligation as a director of the corporation to act in good faith and he violated this education (code) that says you don't railroad things through student senates."

Samaniego said she feels the judicial system is "no good" and "ineffective." She pointed to the fact that the senate was split in deciding whether to have a special election for the fee increase last spring.

"I talked to Gerth one week before school started and he told me the fee increase wasn't even on his desk and wouldn't be (for quite some time). Then I read in the paper about the fee increase being signed. It's a good example that the students don't have justice — that they don't have any say. The complaints didn't slow down anything," Samaniego said.

Baty contends that ASI needs the added funding because its insurance is soon to be increased from "about $15,000 projected to about $75-90,000."

"We have the money in a reserve account and we're going to have to tap into it for about two and one-half to three years and then ASI will go bankrupt. If they (SAFE) win, it's the first step to putting ASI into the ground."

Besides working for a repeal of the fee increase, SAFE officers are selling memberships to the club for $10 to raise money for court costs should the case against their opponents be pursued.

"We want the students to see that they've been defrauded, that they've been wronged," Braden said. "I want to stop them (ASI) from stealing the students' money."

When asked about the fact that the fee increase had originally been passed by a mere 132 votes, Gerth recently said, "We're having people elected to major offices in this country by a lesser margin than that."

Beach said that he fully expects Reynolds to approve the fee increase, saying he would "be stunned if she didn't approve it."

"Let's look at the position she's in," Beach said. "In a legalistic sense, that money goes into the trustees' pockets. Eight dollars a semester, that's $16 a year per student — 27,000 students times $16 times 40 years (CSUS has been in existence for 40 years) — we're talking about more than $30 million going into the trustees' pockets."

"You think Ann Reynolds, if she wants to stay chancellor, can afford not to accept that money? She's got to approve it."

"So Baty's gambit worked. I mean, he's got his fee as far as being approved by Donald Gerth," Beach said. "Now we'll see if Ann Reynolds wants to put her stamp of approval on a fraudulent and criminal act."

ASI Senate Seat Positions Available

2 - Arts & Science Senators

Deadline to Apply
Thursday • October 2 • 5 p.m.

ASI Government Office
3rd Floor Univ. Union
278-6784

CHAPMAN COLLEGE
SACRAMENTO CENTER

The Chapman Alternative

Can't get all the classes you need to complete your degree? Chapman offers a number of courses every 10 weeks which may be just what you need. Our next classes begin on November 3rd. All of our classes meet in the evening or on Saturday, allowing you to continue full-time employment. Accredited, accelerated, inexpensive, convenient. Why not call the office nearest you today?

Mather AFB: 362-5380
McClellan AFB: 929-1388
JMA Bldg: 481-7991

Downtown: 448-1917
Placerville: 621-1708

there's something SPECIAL at...

"BLUE PLATE SPECIAL"
a complete dinner of...
PIZZA, BARBEQUED RIB, DEEP FRIED CHICKEN, BEANS, SALAD AND $5.95 APPLE PIE!! All for only...

Also featuring a spectacular salad bar, rib and chicken dinners and our Rico's specialty...naturally delicious and freshly made thick or thin crust PIZZA!

and more SPECIALS for you...

HE'S BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND...

The talented
RON FRIEL.
Come and enjoy his impersonation
of ELVIS PRESLEY,

not just the looks...but the voice!

EVERY TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Beginning
September 24th

*SHOWTIME***
6:00 to 8:00 PM

Only at Rico's #8

CLIP AND SAVE

"BLUE PLATE SPECIAL"

Bring this ad and receive a $1.00 DISCOUNT on the "Blue Plate Special" for everyone in your party, or you can apply it to the pizza of your choice. Offer good daily thru October 31, 1986. One coupon per order.

Only at Rico's #8

Monday Thru Friday Specials

DINNER FOR FOUR $8.95
Large One Item Pizza and Pitcher of Beverage

Not good with any other offer.
Not valid on take out orders. Exp. 10/30/86

ALL YOU CAN EAT $2.99
Lunch Buffet

Includes: Pizza, Chicken, Salad Bar,
Soup, Dessert, and Much More!
Mon/Fri 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.
Not good with any other offer. Not valid on take out orders. Exp. 10/30/86

$2.00 OFF
Any Large, Family or Party Pizza

or $1.00 OFF
Any Medium Pizza
Take Out or Eat Here
Not good with any other offer

MONDAY
NITE
FOOTBALL
ON OUR BIG SCREEN TV!

STUDENT SPECIALS

800 K Drive Version

$1025 ***

WHY MACINTOSH?

Because it runs hundreds of business programs

$1399 ***

Most powerful personal computer in the world

CALL FOR BEST PRICES ON APPLE, EPSON & KAYPRO

(916) 924-607

COMPUWORLD

2021 ARDEN WAY
SACRAMENTO

Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. Macintosh is a trademark of Macintosh Laboratory Inc. and is used with express permission of its owner Authorized Dealer.

* Price includes student rebate.
Price includes cash discount, add 3% for bank charge cards. Must present current student or faculty card.

THE DELTA CHI FRATERNITY

Is Proud To Present
The Theta Class

- |                   |                  |                  |
|-------------------|------------------|------------------|
| • Joe Bechtel     | • Karl Kopper    | • Brent Smith    |
| • Scott Burns     | • Jeff Kruger    | • Mark Van Biber |
| • John Byrd       | • Craig Marshall | • Jim Vicari     |
| • Carlos Chaumont | • Eric May       | • Mike Vogel     |
| • Marty Dengler   | • Bill Moe       | • Joe Wilson     |
| • Paul Greenhill  | • Jim Mohr       | • Arnel Dimagiba |
| • David Harvey    | • Tim Murphy     |                  |
| • Robert Isaacson | • Eric Plotzke   |                  |

Congratulations Guys!

The Brotherhood Of A Lifetime

WHY BUY
seminar courses when you can borrow them from us?
Real Estate, Motivational, Business & Entrepreneurial
THE SEMINAR LIBRARY
(800) 824-2222, X132

Attention Brides-To-Be!
Buy your wedding flowers for 30% less than florist prices. Basic package $69.50. Satisfaction guaranteed.
Christine's Floral Creations
344-2016

only at RICO'S #8 in Rancho Cordova

10113-D Folsom Blvd • Rancho Cordova
362-9292 For Take Out

Hornets

• Continued From Page 4

The Hornets started the second quarter with a 24-0 lead when, late in the first quarter, Harrison received a handoff, snaked his way through Humboldt's defense and ran 43 yards for a touchdown. The next time the Hornets had possession of the ball, Harrison did it again, this time sprinting the record-breaking distance to score.

The Hornets successfully ended the first half with a score of 31-3 after Humboldt place-kicker Kevin Jordan booted a 47-yard field goal with 2:09 remaining in the half.

The second half, although less exciting for Hornet fans than the first half, yielded 14 points for both teams, with Harrison and Young each scoring touchdowns for CSUS.

"We got a little sloppy in the second half with a big lead," Mattos said. "But it was an important win. We're not a bad football team. We just have to prove it."

"I was pleased with how our defense controlled the line of scrimmage," Mattos continued. "Our defense forced Humboldt to turn the ball over seven times."

"I was also pleased with our offensive performance and especially with Harrison's performance," Mattos said.

The Hornets had 10 quarterback sacks, six by linebacker Stuart Bailey.

The Hornet gridders play next Saturday night against CSU Chico in Chico and then host Santa Clara the following Saturday.

Apples

• Continued From Page 5

Commenting on the taste of cider from the six or seven other presses on Apple Hill, Dave Bolster, president of the Apple Hill Growers Association jokingly said, "Of course, it's better cider here!"

If you're looking for ambiance, look no further than Kids, Inc. Once you walk through the door your nose is held hostage by the fragrance of fresh home-made cooking. The floor is covered in sawdust and the tables in red and white gingham. If you look behind the counter you will see Joan Delfino and her seven kids cooking and serving lunch. Order their specialty, the "Walking Pie." It's a piping hot hand-sized pie you can munch while browsing among the different craft booths.

If you plan to visit Apple Hill this fall by car or bicycle take the Carson exit off Highway 50 and follow the scenic drive signs. The drive undulates throughout the foothills above the South Fork of the American River on North Canyon Road and winds east toward Camino and the Cedar Grove exit.

Be sure to bring a lunch for there are grassy areas with picnic tables at many farms.

The Larsen Apple Barn has the most picnic space with a bake shop and museum. If you cross Larsen Drive and follow a stream you can lunch under a 120-year-old apple tree, the oldest on Apple Hill.

For more information and a free map of the area write: Apple Hill Growers, P.O. Box 494, Camino, Calif., 95709, or call: (916) 644-5380.

Briefs

• continued from page 3

Public Safety auction

An auction of lost and found items will be held on Oct. 17 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Redwood Room, University Union. Great finds abound for bargain seekers: books, sunglasses, wallets, thermos bottles, calculators, clothes, jewelry and about 14 ten-speed bicycles. Student or staff I.D. is required. The auction will be conducted by the Department of Public Safety, Parking Division, and the proceeds will be donated to the CSUS Student Emergency Fund.

Lincoln Law School of Sacramento

Fully accredited by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California.

Apply now for admission.

Phone 916-446-1275 • Mon.-Fri. 9am-8:30pm

or write: Lincoln Law School

3140 J Street, P.O. Box 160328, Sacramento, CA 95816

EVENING LAW SCHOOL

SEND MORE INFORMATION TO:

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____

STATE _____

ZIP _____

RIVERWOOD

Riverwood's Handing Out More Than A's for Passing This Multiple-Choice Exam!*

Q.What does Riverwood offer?

- a. Walking distance to CSUS
- b. Two pools & jacuzzi
- c. Two lighted tennis courts
- d. Professional on-site mgmt.
- e. Satellite TV available
- f. Clubhouse, w/TV, pool, ping pong, weight room, sauna
- g. Conv. laundry facilities
- h. All of the above

* Rent an apartment This weekend and receive a $100<sup>00</sup> gift certificate to either CSUS bookstore, Bobby McGees, or Oshman's Sporting Goods

Call today for Details:
3 Bdrm Duplex Available

RIVERWOOD

7767 La Riviera Dr.
Sacramento, CA 95826
(916) 383-9591

A WORD FROM "PYTHON" PISCOPO EX-WRESTLER ABOUT MILLER LITE

© 1986 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, WI

"DUH"*

* TRANSLATION: A SUPERBLY BREWED, FINE TASTING PILSNER BEER

THERE'S ONLY ONE
LITE BEER

Hornet

Opinion

Guest
Commentary

by Albert R. Braden

Was the fee increase election unfair?

CSUS President Donald Gerth acted irresponsibly and without regard for the will of the students in approving the ASI fee increase on Sept. 19, 1986. This action is an insult to the students of this university, who have clearly expressed their disapproval of the conduct of the fee increase election and of the people responsible for it. In the spring, 1986 ASI general election, they overwhelmingly approved an initiative which severely limits the conduct of fee increase elections. And Michael Shahda, the chief proponent of the fee increase, lost the race for senate chair to a candidate with no previous political experience, whose main campaign issue was her opposition to the fee increase.

President Gerth claims to have unanimous consent from "those empowered to make recommendations" that the fee increase election was properly conducted. This allegation is absolutely false. Six senators out of the 14 serving on the ASI Board of Directors are convinced that the election was unfair, and several others are undecided on the issue. The ASI Board of Justice, which is empowered by ASI Statutes to determine the validity of election complaints, has decided that the complaints are valid, and that the violations of statutes significantly affected the outcome of the election. Based on this decision, they have issued a writ of prohibition ordering ASI officials not to implement the fee increase. Since President Gerth is not legally bound by their decision, he has chosen to ignore it, and thus he condones the fraud and corruption which ran rampant throughout this election and which have been proven beyond a reasonable doubt in ASI's equivalent of a court of law. We do not want to drag ASI and the California State University into a real court of law. But it is beginning to appear that we will have no other recourse.

Therefore, a club is being formed, called Students Against Fraud in Education. The purpose of this club is twofold. First of all, we will circulate petitions to place an initiative on the ballot in the fall, 1986 ASI election which will repeal the fee increase. Second, we will sell memberships in order to raise legal fees so that we can sue the trustees of the California State University, should it become necessary.

Albert R. Braden is the president of CSUS Students Against Fraud in Education

Letters

Pro-frat propaganda attacked

Editor:

First of all, I hope ASI gives you some money. You deserve it. I really enjoy your articles and support you on the anti-fraternity column you ran a couple weeks ago. The banned books story was good, too.

However, I can't believe the Hornet would turn around and print that pro-frat propaganda ("Fraternity commentary draws response"). Who do those sexist hypocrites think they are? Do they honestly think that by quoting some trumped-up "statistics" they can convince the rational world that they're just "nice guys who want to help the community?"

First of all, I question the validity of their "statistics." All but two U.S. Presidents were in fraternities??? Prove it. As a history major, I've read dozens of biographies of former Presidents and only two mentioned anything about fraternities. Plus, some of these Presidents could have been in service fraternities rather than the social snobball variety we see out on the quad.

Somehow I can't see Abe Lincoln at a keg party. But I guess he could have been one of the two (honest) Presidents. I have no doubt Nixon was a frat boy. He is the epitome of deceit learned in the locker rooms of men's clubs.

Also, who do the fraternities think they're impressing when they tell us so many politicians were in frats? I don't know anyone who considers politics an honorable profession. Politicians brought us Vietnam, the Bay of Pigs, Watergate, and an insanelly high national debt. They have also been convicted of having sex with their underage pages, accepting bribes, and soliciting prostitutes. Most Americans agree: Politician is just another word for dirtbag.

The authors of that "response" did make one point, however. If you plan to make a career out of lying, cheating and exploiting others, joining a fraternity is the place to start.

S. E. Podkin

His little eyes are opened

Editor:

Wow!! Your commentary of fraternity life really opened my naive eyes! When I joined a fraternity, I thought I was partaking in an old American college institution rich with history and tradition. It appeared to me to be an organization where young men with common interests can foster honest friendships and enjoy social activities unfortunately unavailable to most students because of our "commuter campus." Little did I know that when I became initiated, I was immediately transformed into (in your words) a sickening, shallow, superficial, arrogant, Greek lingo-babbling, elitist zombie. That's right, I'd become a plastic Don Johnson clone majoring in Quad fashion shows, a dangerous date-raping, gang-raping young man with a cute nickname and slight homosexual tendencies (How come you overlooked alcoholic or drug-crazed?)!! Thanks for your incredible insight into this loathsome campus menace. I'll try to mend my sordid ways.

Faithfully yours,
Bowen Dorse
Sigma Alpha Epsilon

P.S. If I quit my fraternity, can you help me become a narrow-minded, opinionated, self-righteous editor just like you? One that is out of touch with a good percentage of my readers and offends them with my ill-researched and mis-informed commentaries while pursuing my crusade to rid the campus of all things I deem evil.

absorbed ethnocentrism exuded becomes offensive to us in "the masses." The recent debacle at a rushweek "Luau" raised many doubts among those in attendance as to the validity of a $6 "invitation."

In conversing with friends and acquaintances, I have found the main stumbling block to acceptance of the CSUS fraternity system is the air of elitism that surrounds its members. I hope the system will be able to receive these criticisms in a constructive vein.

Mark R. Condit

A time and place for Greeks

Editor:

I have to totally agree with J. Williams' commentary about the Frat Brats. I have never heard any good comments about the boys and have never seen any good come out of them.

Williams made some valid comments about their behavior towards other students and their brothers. "If you ain't a brother, you ain't a friend."

Instead of worrying about what party they are going to attend Friday night or what girl or guy they want to go to bed with on Saturday, the frat boys should be worrying about educational endeavors.

I have seen the previous letters in the Hornet where one frat will write in and say "We do this service project for the crippled Gila monsters in Africa every year." Big deal!

One little project that barely gets any notice and they want the Nobel Peace prize for mankind. Why don't they publicize these events with the same gusto that they promote their beer busts?

That would be the best thing they ever did. Try not to alienate students with your "prima donna" attitudes and make yourselves more available to other students and organizations.

One other small point I would like to make. I hate to say this, but you frat boys bring all your hardships on yourselves. I mean, you can't even take a grain of abuse without building a mountain of defense about how wonderful you are. Everytime someone calls you frat boys, you declare World War III and act like they called your mother a horse.

Before you wear out the poor stamp machine by the library, I will let you know that I was involved with a frat at another school. I can speak from experience because I know what goes on in your little worlds. So don't send a billion letters to the Hornet saying, "He doesn't know anything about our group and we're sick and tired of being picked on." Remember, you guys supply the ammunition.

Thanks again to Williams for doing the students a favor. It's time someone decided to put the Greek boys in their place.

Yours,
D.B.Technology and sympathy from business
dept. head

Editor:

After reading Ms. Bonnie Verhaag's letter to the editor on the business school's registration on Aug. 27 and 28, I can certainly sympathize with the frustration that she and other students suffered when our computer registration program failed. Ms. Verhaag, I believe, has hit on an issue which is a concern to a society dependent upon high technology to process information, i.e., as we continue to depend upon technology for our very existence, the degree of potential frustration which occurs within the individual seems to increase geometrically when the "machine" fails.

There is no doubt that our society will continue to rely heavily on high technology to solve daily problems. The ever growing need for processing greater amounts of data at faster speeds means that each of us will become more and more dependent upon forces totally outside our immediate control. When the system malfunctions, the disruptive-ness that is caused for each of us could become a catastrophic event in our lives. Those of us who are implementing technological changes should be cognizant of the situation and make every effort to ensure that individual concerns are not forgotten or overlooked. However, with the advent and implementation of the computer registration process over the manual process which we previously used in the School of Business and Public Administration, we are able to reduce the individual processing time down to five to 10 minutes versus what used to run a minimum of half an hour. The results of the computer program problem which occurred this semester have prompted changes in the method by which we access data to the computer and we are hopeful that we have solved this particular problem.

With regard to the 30 terminals Ms. Verhaag mentioned in her letter, those were terminals for the Students Computer Lab. However, the real problem is the lack of funds to hire individuals to operate more terminals and the fact that one file is being accessed by all users and additional users would cause further delay.

We are continuing to investigate new methods by which we can reduce the time required for registration and to modify the computer program to make the process quicker. As we continue to strive for improved operations, there is, of course, always the possibility of a malfunction of the computer program which may cause problems such as the one Ms. Verhaag and other students suffered this fall.

On behalf of the business school, I would like to apologize to all the students who found themselves faced with the long waiting lines. I hope that you will find your academic pursuits far more rewarding than the frustration you suffered during registration this fall.

Josef D. Moorehead
Acting Dean
School of Business and Public Administration

The State Hornet, 6000 J St., Bldg. T-KK
Sacramento, CA 95819

Valerie Scott
Editor-in-Chief

Bryan Heath
Art Director

Ray Pfand
Photo Editor

D. London Roberts
Managing Editor

Shawn Ryley
Entertainment Assistant

Erin Miller
News Editor

Brad Melin
Sports Editor

Christy Cayo
News Assistant

Daniel Judge
Entertainment Editor

Sue Gordon
Advertising Manager

Carella Guidon
Special Publications Editor

Dorian Haag
Student Ad Manager

Jennifer K. Williams
Copy Editor

Michael McGuire
Advertising Rep/Entertainment

The State Hornet was formed in 1949 and is the product of the Publications Board of The State Hornet at California State University, Sacramento. It is published every Wednesday during the fall and spring semesters — except on major holidays and during semester breaks.

All views expressed herein are the responsibility of the authors and The State Hornet Editorial Committee and do not reflect the views of the CSUS journalism department, administration, student body, Associated Students Inc., or any other group connected with the university unless otherwise noted. Unsigned articles are the responsibility of The State Hornet Editorial Committee.

Letters to the Editor
The State Hornet
Bldg. T-KK
6000 J Street
Sacramento, CA 95819

Editorial
(916) 278-6584

News Desk
(916) 278-6583

Advertising
(916) 278-7248

One step from the moral majority

Editor:

The current backlash against the pseudo-superiority of the fraternity system at CSUS should come as no surprise. Any group of people who assume superiority over the masses, for whatever reason, should eventually expect "the masses" to become fed up with their posturing.

High visibility supremacists such as Jerry Falwell's Moral Majority; the physical superiority implied in Hitler's idea of the Aryan Race; and the political pretensions of the Masonic Lodge in Rochester, New York in the 1820's; all eventually produced a popular groundswell of opposition.

Don't get me wrong — one of my best friends in the world belongs to a fraternity, and a lot of the friendships I've made on campus are with brothers and sisters of the fraternity system. Individually these people are bright, smiling, and openly social. But when "quadrulating" in front of our library as a mass — the self-

Letters and Columns Policy

The State Hornet welcomes letters, guest commentaries and cartoons from all political factions on campus. All submissions must be typewritten and double spaced. Deadlines are Thursday at 11 a.m. for use in the following Wednesday edition. Letters must not exceed 100 words and commentaries must not exceed 400 words. All submissions must include your true name and phone number. Names may be withheld upon request or by discretion of the editor. We reserve the right to edit for style, label or length. The State Hornet cannot guarantee publication of submitted material and will not assume responsibility for the return of unpublished submissions.

Hand deliver submissions to The State Hornet office, Building T-KK on campus or drop them in the mail to The State Hornet Opinion Page, 6000 J Street, Sacramento, CA 95819.

CAREERS

A STATE HORNET SPECIAL SECTION

ROTC offers skills

by Glenn Kardy
Staff Writer

Students who are interested in a military career but who first want to complete their college education may find the Air Force or Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) just what they are looking for.

The ROTC program allows college students to continue their education while taking classes that will prepare them to be officers in the military after graduation. CSUS has an ROTC on campus located on the second floor of the Public Service Building.

According to U.S. Army Capt. Matthew Ransdell, the ROTC "trains cadets (ROTC students) to be leaders, to be able to function when they're put in charge of others."

"In any job, you're going to need leadership abilities," Army ROTC cadet Paula Rhodes said, citing this as one of her reasons for enrolling in the program.

Air Force ROTC cadet Brian Tuck agrees. "You learn to manage and relate with people."

Both the Army and Air Force ROTC have two-and four-year programs. In the four-year program, freshmen or sophomores may take ROTC classes without any obligation to the military. Then, in the junior year, if a student wishes to continue, and qualifies, he may enter a contract with the military, agreeing to become a commissioned officer after graduating from college.

Students in the two-year program do not take the "no obligation" classes available in the four-year program.

All ROTC cadets are given a $100 per month salary during the school year. Furthermore, the program offers several scholarships to qualifying students. Finally, all textbooks and other materials, including uniforms, necessary for ROTC courses are provided free of charge.

Since the ROTC is designed to allow students to prepare for a career in the military as well as finish their college education, students who finish their ROTC courses before they finish school are allowed to remain in college until they graduate before being commissioned into active duty.

Upon graduation, all cadets are made second lieutenants. This rank often puts the officer in command of several dozen people. With this rank also comes a guaranteed salary.

Other benefits cadets enjoy, besides a guaranteed job and salary after graduation, are coverage of medical and dental costs, the opportunity to travel and the chance to continue their education while in the service.

Tuck said "I want to fly. I joined hoping to get selected to pilot training (school)." He did. After finishing his studies in the engineering department at CSUS, Tuck will study in Air Force flight schools.

While the ROTC does require its cadets to follow codes of military conduct (which includes occasionally wearing uniforms), the department may not be as strict as some believe. Rhodes, who attended the U.S. Military Academy, said "There is less rigidity through ROTC. You get to be more of a person than at West Point."

Almost all ROTC cadets will agree that one of the program's best benefits is the opportunity to become a member of a "team." U.S. Air Force Capt. Patrick Marvel said "The Air Force is a family. We (the teachers) like to get to know our students. We take care of each other, play sports together, have fun."

Rhodes agrees. "There's a lot of camaraderie. Most of my friends are in the ROTC. Many of us run together. We ran in the Davis Marathon last year."

This teamwork often takes the cadets outside of the classroom for their education. The ROTC encourages its cadets to participate in community service work.

• Please see ROTC, page 12

ROTC cadets learn skills for future use, including repelling, shown here.

WEST — jobs for women

by Diane Kirkish
Staff Writer

Are you a low-income Sacramento resident looking for work? If so, you may be eligible for the Women's Employment Services and Training Program (WEST). WEST provides on-the-job training for adults and youth as well as a special pre-employment skills training program for young women interested in non-traditional occupations.

WEST is funded by the Jobs Training Partnership Act (JTPA) to subsidize training for economically disadvantaged women. Of the participants completing on-the-job training, 82 percent have entered permanent employment, according to LaVera Gaston, employment specialist for WEST.

After a person is placed in a company for training, the JTPA agency provides retention counseling and frequent contact with job counselors. If needed, services such as child care costs, transportation, emergency housing, and tool or uniform costs to allow for continued employment are available.

"The purpose of the program is to identify job openings and to place women in private businesses to improve their employment skills," Gaston said. "At the end of the training, the participants have an opportunity to remain in the business as full time permanent employees."

Pre-employment skills training consists of training over a 10-week period. The training includes workshops on types of non-traditional jobs available, survival on the job, and job search information. Participants have access to WEST's resource center which includes union apprenticeship programs, video cassettes, slide shows and written information.

Employer forums are scheduled to allow participants to meet with company representatives to discuss occupations and the nature of the work involved. Most of the training hours are for "hands on" experience in the work environment.

The on-the-job training concept was introduced by the federal government in 1973 to help curb the high unemployment rate found in certain targeted groups such as welfare recipients, ethnic groups, and older workers.

• Please see WEST, page 11

Outlook update for students

As the school year begins, there's mixed news for the 1986-87 crop of college graduates. The Job Opportunity Index published in the September issue of Business Week CAREERS magazine, predicts a 2 percent rise in total job offers. But no increase is expected in starting salaries.

Accounting and business majors have the best prospects, with a prediction of a 3.5 percent rise in opportunities. Liberal arts graduates should also fare better than they did last year, with retailing and food service as prime markets. Because today's liberal arts grads know more about computers and business methods, they'll continue to make strides in banking, real estate, and finance. Look, too, for growth in the education field as the nation scrambles to fill teaching spots.

The outlook for engineering grads is spotty. Offers will be plentiful for those in computer science, electronics and avionics. But few offers are anticipated for petroleum and mining engineers. Power engineers, too, face dim prospects as utilities still feel the effects of diminishing investment. Management and Administration grads also face some hurdles, as cost-conscious companies are hiring fewer trainees.

Overall, the outlook is for growth in job opportunities, especially if lower interest rates stimulate hiring, as many predict. And, because this year's graduating class will be smaller, each job seeker should have proportionately more career opportunities than last year.

Working temporarily

by Karen Wilcox
Staff Writer

Temporary jobs can be low-paying clerical positions, but are great for people who want seasonal work (students who work during the summer and between semesters, for instance), mothers re-entering the work force, and those who need experience to find a permanent position. Many people work temporary jobs because they want time to travel, or they enjoy frequent changes in the type of companies or people they work for.

Temporary work can be either full or part-time, usually during the normal working hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. It can last from one day to several months. Part-time positions are easy for students to fit into an all-morning or all-afternoon class schedule.

Temporary workers are generally not given benefits or paid vacations, but they are also not charged a fee by the job services.

When an employer needs help, rather than going through stacks of resumes and references, one call can be made to temporary job service which will do all the screening. Some jobs are only accessible to these agencies.

Often temporary workers are offered permanent positions, which suggests that some employers use these services to "superscreen" new employees.

The industry is growing fast. Gary Simonsen of Dunhill Temporary Systems reported that temporaries grossed $1 billion in 1980 and $6 billion in 1985. They are expected to gross $20 billion by the year 1992.

Most temporary job services employ file clerks, receptionists, word processors and legal secretaries. Students are encouraged to use temporary services. Dunhill states a need for secretaries, word processors, accountants, and people to do light industrial work.

Caltemp claims 20 to 30 percent of its jobs involve no typing.

Temporary job services often give typing, spelling, and math tests. A resume is usually expected.

Victor Temporary Services requires a minimum of four hours per assignment because occasionally a company decides it doesn't need

• Please see Temps, page 11

The "D"™ Every Student Deserves

Free Leading Edge® Word Processor
now included with every system.

- Leading Edge "D" PC
- * Two 360K Disk Drives
  - * 512K Internal Memory
  - * Mono and Color Graphics
  - * Three Expansion Slots
  - * High-Res Mono Monitor
  - * Selectric Keyboard
  - * Parallel and Serial Ports
  - * Fifteen Month Warranty
  - * Toll-Free Tech Support
  - * Reset Button
  - * IBM Compatible

- Leading Edge "D" 30MB PC
- * One 360K Disk Drive
  - * One 30 MB Fixed Disk
  - * 512K Internal Memory
  - * Mono and Color Graphics
  - * Three Expansion Slots
  - * High-Res Mono Monitor
  - * Selectric Keyboard
  - * Parallel and Serial Ports
  - * Fifteen Month Warranty
  - * Toll-Free Tech Support
  - * Reset Button
  - * IBM Compatible

$1195      $1695

Financing Available

LEADING EDGE™ AUTHORIZED RETAIL DEALER

IBM® Compatible

(916) 925-3337

The Original Software Store

Software Centre International 1537 Howe Avenue
Sacramento, California 95825

A field for creative types

by Tony Mark
Staff Writer

People in advertising have this crazy love/hate thing about their careers. You can hear some of the greatest gripes about the business, but few leave it voluntarily.

Despite the widely publicized inherent stress, the advertising business is probably the most creative field you can enter. If you are a writer, you can write prose to your heart's content. If you are an artist, you can find challenge in the intriguing visual problems generated by clients. The best thing of all is the pay. Where else can you get paid so well for being creative? This does not mean you will be well-paid to begin with. On the contrary, until you prove your value, you will probably be making little.

Advertising is not just for highly creative people, although that is the tendency. People who are good at figuring, good at planning, good at problem-solving and good at dealing with executives are needed.

Advertising career people can work in the ad departments of companies like Weinstock's or Mervyn's, for ad media like the Sacramento Bee or KCRA, or for ad agencies or ad specialty firms. Advertising agencies produce almost all the national television, radio, newspaper and magazine advertising.

In Sacramento, there are 73 advertising agencies, according to the Sacramento Media Guide. There are also 38 graphic designers, only nine writers and four marketing consultants. Most of the agencies seem to be just two-person outfits that tend to specialize in certain kinds of clients or ad media. The full-service agencies who have real "departments" are few.

Many counselors suggest that job seekers look to large cities and the large agencies, possibly because the counselors feel that the odds of getting a starting job are better with the bigger agencies. There may be some merit to that approach, but by first joining a small, local agency and getting some practical experience — developing a specialty, perhaps — you make yourself more saleable to larger firms (with the larger personnel budgets). You can get good experience at the local level that will help when you interview for the big job.

There are some things in planning for an advertising or graphic arts career that you may want to think about. First, you need talent if you are considering the creative end of the business. Just as important will be opportunities to show your talent. Prepare for those job opportunities by doing creative work wherever you can find it, even doing volunteer work for non-profit agencies. Be sure to get samples of the finished jobs and put them into your portfolio. The portfolio is the main tool for getting creative jobs.

Develop skills. If you are a writer, write — if you are an artist, create. Use your hands and your mind. Learn all the techniques you can from whoever will teach you. Take classes; get internships; follow what is happening in the field.

Sacramento is growing, and as more new companies open their doors, they will need effective and creative advertising that will help them grow and prosper. If you plan now, you can be one of the fresh, new, talented people who can help create all that great advertising.

Come See Us On Campus

FIRST INTERSTATE BANK

will be holding an information session on October 14, 1986
5:15 - 7:00 p.m.

in Education, Room 106
ALL MAJORS INVITED

We're Setting the Pace!

AIM HIGH

College Graduates

Get your career off to a flying start! Attend Air Force Officer Training School, earn a commission, and begin a rewarding career. The Air Force offers you good pay, complete medical care and much more. AIM HIGH. Contact

USAF OFFICER PLACEMENT
(916) 635-9618 Collect

A great way of life.

WEST

• continued from page 9

"Because the government recognizes the employer's role as the key to the success of the program, employers are given a reimbursement of 50 percent of the trainee's wages and a tax credit of up to $3,000 the first year and $1,500 the second year," Gaston said.

WEST provides job information to about 1,000 applicants per year. In 1983 WEST was designated by the U.S. Department of Labor as the primary recruitment source for companies seeking women for non-traditional occupations in Sacramento.

"WEST is an excellent program," said Fred Fisher, owner of Fiber Seal in Sacramento. "It alleviates my applicant interviewing time because they screen the people first."

Other employers have also praised the program for its job services. "I would recommend this service to other employers," said Alice Forrest, owner of Keystrokes company in Sacramento. "I've been using the WEST program for about a year now and it's a great source of employees."

Employees also seemed to be happy with the service. "State employment services have been cut back, so there really is a need for a program like WEST," said Judy Babcock a fabric consultant for Fiber Seal.

"Although the women's movement has helped a number of women enter the labor force, there is still much to be done. Women, especially those who are single parents, are still the largest category of those in poverty," Gaston said.

Financial Planning & Investment Brokers Positions Available

Write to us for a more detailed description of these positions and opportunities. We are based here in Sacramento.

- The positions are non-salaried rather you will be trained to:
- Create your own financial planning practice.
  - Obtain your investment brokers (registered representative) security license.
  - Analyze investments and make recommendations.
  - Earn substantial income based on fees and commissions.

Please note only those interested in creating your own business with high professional standards should inquire.

Simply write to us and request a more detailed summary of these opportunities. Write to:

H. W. Bailey & Associates
3125 El Camino Ave.
Sacramento, Ca. 95821

Securities offered through Planned Investments, Inc.
Please write first. Do Not Call.

LET YOUR SKILLS MAKE $$ FOR YOU

Be a Full-Time Temp

- Secretaries
- Word Processors
- Data Entry
- Receptionist
- Switchboard Operator

Call Bonnie For Appointment
635-8777

Dunhill Temporary Systems

You're looking at a pro.

He's doing more than making good grades. He's making good money, and gaining valuable experience. Working part-time as an agent for Northwestern Mutual Life is a challenging job that builds a future while paying off now. Many of our college agents are making a 5-figure income.

Only Northwestern Mutual agents can handle Northwestern products. It's one reason why Northwestern Mutual has the highest percentage of college graduates in the industry, and the lowest percentage of turnover. If you're good, the possibilities are unlimited.

Call or write today, and build a career for life, with Northwestern Mutual Life.

William W. Fobes, II
General Agent
1515 Response Road
Sacramento, Ca. 95815
Telephone: (916) 929-7200

Northwestern Mutual Life
The Quiet Company

A tough act to follow

Temps

• continued from page 9

help, or the worker finishes in less than the assigned time.

Whether you are looking for part-time work, screening for a new job, or just don't want to work in one place for very long, temporary jobs are the way to go. Here is a short list from the more than 50 temporary job services in Sacramento. Others can be found in the Yellow Pages under "employment."

Action Temps	920-8084
Adia Personnel Services	920-8480
Burton Temps	924-0800
Caltemp	920-2333
Dunhill Temporary Systems	635-8777
Kelly Services	383-1386
Legal Resource People	929-6619
People Express Agency	920-5671
Tempeople Inc.	486-1464
Victor Temporary Services	929-0600

LET DEAD BEARS
DANCE!

SLAKEY BROTHERS

Since 1939

Products for the Construction Industry by People Who Care.

Branches throughout Northern California and Nevada.

Look for our Representatives on campus on October 8th.

WOMEN AS PATROL OFFICERS

AGE: 20-31 SALARY: $2,317-$2,895 per month

I am interested in becoming a State Traffic Officer

Name: _____

Address: _____

City: _____ State: _____ Zip Code: _____

Home Phone: _____

AN EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY-AFFIRMATIVE ACTION EMPLOYER

FILL THIS OUT AND MAIL TO:

CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY PATROL
P.O. Box 8001
RANCHO CORDOVA, CA
95670-8001

Or Contact: Officer George Olinares
or Officer Diane Foster
(916) 366-5185

Be an Olsten temporary.

We work for you.

That's why so many people work for us.

Olsten offers:

- Top jobs at top companies
- Weekly pay every Friday
- Special bonuses
- Free WP/PC training*
- Medical and dental plans

Come in and register today and learn how Olsten will work for you.

*For those who qualify

Olsten SERVICES

EOE M/F/H/V

One man's struggle with the real world

by Mark Hoehner
Special to the Hornet

There must be a right way to look for a job after graduation. There must be. And if anyone discovers the right way, I hope they write a book. In the meantime, I'm writing the book on the wrong way.

I had to first learn how to deal with the prying but well-meaning questions from friends, family, and acquaintances. I learned too late that my pat response to any and all questions should have been, "What's it to you?" Instead I wasted a lot of breath telling people, "No, I don't have a job lined up. No, I don't have a resume. No, I don't have a portfolio. No, as a matter of fact I haven't started looking yet."

I was working at a pizza parlor — had been for a year and a half. I quit two weeks before graduation. I didn't want to be rolling dough and pouring Cokes at a pizza parlor with a diploma in my hand. My co-workers asked questions about my future and I referred them to the previous paragraph for the answers.

The situation is that I was an art major with a communications minor, with intentions to venture into commercial art. I had no practical experience and had never even considered applying for an internship. Working for nothing? No, thanks. I'd rather be a waiter.

A waiter? Now that's an idea. To be honest, after four and a half years of school, I was pretty sick of the art biz. I thought it would be a great idea to wait tables for maybe a year or so and gather material for future artistic endeavors, not to mention money for other endeavors.

I applied around and every place insisted on previous experience. You mean it's not enough just to be a nice guy who likes people, especially hungry rude people. I thought. No, it's not.

Eventually, I was hired by a local, popular night spot specializing in a variety of food and a bigger variety of cute mixed drinks. I was hired as a host — a doorman. My duties: open doors for patrons and smile; take them to their table and smile; open doors for patrons as they leave and smile; answer the telephone and sound like I'm smiling. The list goes on. It was a very meaningful and inspiring job. I learned how to say, "How are you doing today?" to people I didn't know, when I didn't care.

I tried to look comfortable in my slacks and tie, while watching waiters and waitresses in silly hats earn the bucks, all the while knowing that I could do what they were doing. Don't think that I was discouraged, however, I had a conference with my manager and told him I wanted to be a waiter — that I could do the job well. He told me that I had to "prove" myself at the door first. He said I didn't look like I was having fun. What was I supposed to do to look like I was having fun? I could have brought in "Twister" and set it up in the door-way, inviting people to take off their shoes and join me in a game. Winner gets a window table?

I quit that job after three months, but not before accidentally decking a waitress with a careless backhand swipe one busy Saturday night, sending her drinks flying and the rest of her straight to the floor. Needless to say, this was the embarrassing highlight of my doorman career.

By this time I had finally put together a pretty impressive-looking resume. At least it was printed on pretty impressive paper. I sent these resumes to various graphic art and design establishments along with a cover letter. Very professional. Time to get serious here. Time to get a career going. No more Mr. Doorman.

Next, I waited a week or so then called my future employers and gave them my spiel: "Hello, my name is —"

"I'm sorry, but we're not looking for anybody right now, but you're welcome to come in and fill out an application anyway even though we won't hire you because you have no experience and we just hired somebody who does, but you might want to try us again in about three years, thank you." Click.

I began to get desperate. After sifting through the mail and weeding out my rejection letters, I looked in the ads and started circling anything. One ad in particular caught my eye:

"Research people wanted. Good communication skills." Having pretty good communication skills, I went and applied and was hired instantly. (Never a good sign.) The place: Arden Fair Mall. The job: Quiz people on their toothpaste-buying habits and log their responses on my clipboard.

Oh no... not that I was... one of the dreaded Mall Clipboard People! I'd gone out of my way to avoid them all my life. I'd see them standing, one on each side, waiting like vultures to prey on those without the foresight or the agility to sidestep into a Hammond Organ shop to escape them. Now I was one of THEM. I was on the other side.

In one night, I developed the sense of smell that allowed me to detect a victim from three stores away. On a Tuesday evening. However, the victims were scarce and my desire to seek out and probe was never really there. I was avoiding the shoppers as much as they were avoiding me, and I have to admit that being on the receiving end of dirty looks and rolling eyeballs did not help my cause any. Watching casual, strolling shoppers suddenly turn into high-speed track stars at the sight of me took its toll on my soul. I contemplated quitting.

When I left the mall that night and discovered negative space where my bike had once been parked, I took it as a sign from above. I called up and quit the next day. I never returned for my check.

So it was back to the classifieds and unemployment. "Telemarketing." Hmmm. Sounds interesting. I called the number listed in an ad that told me it was easy to make money doing telemarketing just part-time. I talked to Mike. He told me to come on in. I did. He hired me right away.

Now, a word of advice: When someone hires you on the spot without reading your application, back very slowly out the door, then turn and run. Don't even look back. It's better to be poor than to work where they need people that badly.

Always an optimist, I accepted the job and started the next night. They sat me at a little table in a small room in an old Victorian downtown with three other people in the room, each with their own telephone and a set of cards with the names and addresses of potential suckers. For four hours I sat, dialed, talked, got rejected, hung up, and dialed again. Nobody wanted to spend twenty-five dollars to buy a family ticket for the Sacramento Police Officers Association's 12th Annual Family Variety Show at the Community Center featuring professional variety acts from the Reno/Tahoe area and hosted by none other than that ever-popular genius of comedy, Jerry Van Dyke. In fact, most of the folks on my list of calls were senior citizens barely able to make the journey across the living room to answer the phone. Then they would tell me about their fixed incomes, their hospital bills, their blind husbands, their deaf wives, their operations, immobilities and general discomforts. It soon became more and more difficult to dial. I worried that I was going to be responsible for someone's injury if he or she fell on the way to the phone.

The pay was commission only. If you sell a ticket, you get money. I sold a ticket.

I realized quickly that I didn't have the talent that everybody else had for selling tickets for a show nobody wants to see, to elderly people who have no money. I guess I just didn't fit in. Mike, my supervisor, said they're all like one big family there. After two days I bid my family goodbye and ran away from home. And I never went back for my check.

On a friend's advice I went to a temporary service for my next two attempts to earn honest money. My first job was four days of taking inventory at Tower Books. That I could do, although it wasn't easy to count the books and read them at the same time, which I had a tendency to do. Still, my job career was showing improvement. Each new job was lasting twice as long as the previous one.

I kept this pattern up with an eight-day stint at a Weinstock's warehouse out in the warehouse district around Richards Boulevard, a lovely area of town in which every third building is boarded up and there is enough broken glass scattered across the sidewalks to rebuild the Emerald City. This area of town boasts an old boot in every pot and two bums in every garage.

The warehouse itself was quite lively. When I wasn't dodging speeding forklifts, I was unloading this year's fall fashions and making sure the boxes contained what they were supposed to contain. Bold patterns and the color fuschia are this year's daring statements of fashion. Everyone knows that now, but I knew it in July.

If ever there was a good, dirty, honest work, this was it. I had to be honest; there was a security guard at the entrance. I'd come home every day with cardboard dust around my collar and in the crooks of my arms, but I was happy.

So, if I liked this job, why did I quit this time? Well, on a whim I answered an ad for a graphics position downtown that actually sounded like something I could do. But I had to go about this differently than I had in the previous months. Wearing a tie hadn't worked before, so I stopped by one afternoon (still filthy from the warehouse) and filled out an application. The following Saturday, I threw on a sweatshirt and went to the interview. I was hired the following Thursday.

ROTC

• continued from page 9

Tuck, who belongs to the Air Force's Arnold Air Society (which he says is similar to a fraternity), said last semester the group helped paint the Sacramento Children's Home school. "We had a lot of fun helping out the March of Dimes walk-a-thon. We help the community and have a good time," he said.

Students interested in learning more about ROTC should contact the department on the second floor of the Public Service Building. Also, every Wednesday, at 3 p.m. in PSB 211, the Air Force ROTC gives a presentation to students interested in the program.

Encouraging students to check out what ROTC offers Tuck said, "It's really not difficult to take if you're self-disciplined. I've had a lot of fun with ROTC. It's what you make of it."

OPEN HOUSE

OPEN HOUSE

Open The Door To a Promising Career With Radio Shack

We invite you to explore the opportunity to join our team in the exciting and lucrative field of sales and sales management by attending our Open House.

Date: 10-1-86

Time: 8:00 a.m. to evening

Library Quad

We have a lot to offer men and women who are people-oriented, thirsty for responsibility self-motivated and seeking unlimited earnings based on self-performance.

If you are unable to attend you may send resume or call:

Steve Lyons Address: 1337 Howe Ave.
920-1296 Sacramento, CA. 95825

Radio Shack

Radio Shack

Your basic problem:

Physics
Genetics Statistics
Calculus
Complex Numbers
Analytical Geometry
Stress Analysis
Organic Chemistry
Probability Gaussian Transformations
Differential Equations
Titrations
Electromagnetics
Thermodynamics
Fluid Mechanics
Etc., etc., etc....

Your BASIC solution:

Introducing BASICALC.™ The new Texas Instruments programmable calculator.

Now there's a programmable scientific calculator that solves even the most complex math, engineering and science problems in a BASIC way. The TI-74 BASICALC.

Unlike most other programmable calculators that require you to learn a new, complicated system of key-stroke commands—in effect, a new programming language—the TI-74 BASICALC allows you to use the BASIC language programming you already know.

But don't let the BASICALC's ease of operation fool you. It also has more calculating power than comparably-priced programmables.

Your basic specs:

- Operates as a calculator or BASIC computer
- 8K RAM expandable to 16K RAM
- 70 built-in scientific functions
- Optional software cartridges for mathematics and statistics
- Optional PASCAL language cartridge
- Optional printer and cassette interface

And a variety of options, like software cartridges, are available that make it even more powerful and convenient.

Stop by and see the TI-74 BASICALC for yourself. In basic terms, what it really offers you is a bargain.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS

HORNET ENTERTAINMENT

Music/Film/Arts/Books/Television/Nightlife

CSUS Gets 'Bent'
Under The Needle
Bono's Big Debut

The Masters and Johnson Report

(Editor's Note: This is part I of a two part series.)

by Louis Gilman
Staff Writer

Anyone who listens to the strange and offbeat humor of the "Masters and Johnson Show" of KWOD 106 (from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m.) knows that these two gentlemen are brilliant in their own right. Sort of like, dare I say it, a David Letterman show with twins. Of course, I may be somewhat prejudiced, but then again, I'm writing this and you're not.

Before we move into the heart of this story (the awesome interview), I would like to take time and give some info about these two pirates of the airwaves. Doug Masters is 37, married, and has 6 cats. His broadcasting career began in 1969, and his future plans are to go to lunch. Marty Johnson is 36, married, and has a tiny brown dog. His broadcasting career began when he received an internship at CSUS to KROY radio. His future plans are to take a vacation. Both men, let it be known, are very happily married, and each claims his wife is a great cook.

Hornet: Why don't you guys wear tuxedos while on the air?

Doug Masters: When you get up at four or four-thirty, you have a tendency to just grab as much sleep as you can, and just zip out the door with whatever you can find.

Marty Johnson: We do what TV people do before they go on the air; the stuff that doesn't show doesn't have to be covered. Stan and Margaret don't wear pants, by the way.

Hornet: Is that why Margaret is always smiling?

Johnson: Actually, it's sort of a smirk. (laughs)

Hornet: How did you two get together, and who came up with the format of Masters and Johnson?

Masters: Before Marty came here, I was doing the Masters and Johnson check each other out.

morning show, and when the morning partner things began coming back in vogue again, we started looking here at the station for somebody. I had done a couple of practice shows with a few folks, and Marty came here, and he worked with KWOD a number of years ago, and we went on the air and it just clicked (snaps his fingers) just like that.

Johnson: He had been Masters and ...for such a long time.

Masters: Yeah, I needed to fill in the blank.

Johnson: It was like waiting to happen, the other shoe was falling, and I was the only one they could get to get up this early.

Masters: We were sitting around, debating what to call the show, and it seemed like Johnson would go real well with Masters. It has a nice ring to it. And, we could bleed off somebody else's fame.

Hornet: Do you write your own material beforehand or ad-lib?

Johnson: We write it afterwards.

Masters: Actually, it's about 99.9 percent ad-lib.

Johnson: We have some joke services; most disc jockeys have joke services that you use for filler, or for things when you don't have something spontaneous and live right there. You might go to a joke, and they are really fabulous. If you don't use some of them, then you are missing out on a good supply, because they are just perfectly tailored. We do a lot of the same ones Dr. Don Rose uses, and most of the big names use them. They are really good.

Masters: Marty has a wonderful talent for taking a joke and making it seem natural and spontaneous.

Hornet: Marty, you look a little like my brother, and I'm kind of worried about that.

Johnson: I used to be your brother, and the operation was a success.

Hornet: Do you really enjoy doing the show?

Masters: I enjoy it. There are days, of course, where you are beat, tired, exhausted, and would rather have that opportunity to, when the alarm goes off, go right back to sleep again. But, on those days when everything just hits, it's wonderful. It can make up for any number of days where you might feel flat or not totally into it.

Johnson: It is the most fun you can have without wearing your pants on your head.

Masters: No matter how distressing it is, it sure beats

• Please see MASTERS, page 14

Bad Attitudes

by Daniel Judge

It's 7:46 Monday morning and I'm getting a bad attitude.

I'm sitting in the cab of my truck, banging my fist on the steering wheel every time the disc jockey informs me (from the truck's one unbroken speaker) that it is now exactly five minutes later than the last time he told me what time it was and made me bang my fist on the steering wheel.

With all the anxiety and pressure already inherent in the education process, this year's CSUS students are having their fragile brains pushed to the brink of strokedom by a traffic problem that seems like it certainly should have been worth a mention in the Book of Revelations.

It seems the administration has decided to try a variation on the old "let's see how many college kids we can stuff in a phone booth" and has tried to update it with "let's see how many college kids we can stuff into a campus." The result of this mass enrollment has been a mass traffic jam.

Which brings me back to where I began.

I'm sitting in the cab of my truck banging my fist on the steering wheel. I've got an 8 o'clock class in 14 minutes and an instructor just waiting to break the class into guffaws as he rolls his eyes and makes funny faces at me while I try to sink unnoticed to my seat.

Once more, from the radio, "...and hey, it's a sunny, sunny day out there and, if you're still listening,

• Please see BAD, page 14

TUXEDO JUNCTION

The Bobs - Back by popular demand at Tuxedo Junction.

Bobbing for tunes

Tuxedo Junction kicks off its second successful year with the triumphant return of the Bobs to CSUS on Oct. 3. The extremely popular and critically acclaimed a cappella group will present two shows at 8 and 10:30 p.m. at the Pub in the Central Food Service Building.

Tuxedo Junction, a "casually classy cabaret," is patterned after the highly successful Starlight Comedy Cafe except that it features popular music acts rather than comedy. Although the audience is encouraged to come dressed casually, the Tuxedo Junction staff will exude class. Waiters and waitresses will serve beer, wine and other refreshments. To enhance the atmosphere of a cozy nightclub, there will be a black and white penguin theme with candlelit tables.

An outrageous and hilarious Bay Area quartet, the Bobs, mix innovative technique, verbal satire and daring music. They have been described as a cross between DEVO and the Manhattan Transfer and have recently received two Bammys (Bay Area Music Awards) and a Grammy Nomination.

The Bobs use only their imaginations and vocal chords to make some of the funniest, freshest and most accessible sounds around, proving that the human voice remains the most powerful instrument of all.

Opening this semester's premiere show is the acoustic folk and rock sounds of Anthony Cavazos.

Tuxedo Junction takes place in the Pub on Oct. 3, with two shows at 8 and 10:30 p.m. Admission is $4.50 for CSUS students; $6 general admission. Advance tickets are available (and encouraged) at the Associated Students Business Office, third floor of the University Union. For further information, contact 278-5781.

Crocodile discovers New York too tough

by Glenn Kardy
Staff Writer

"Crocodile" Dundee is a funny film. What is funny is that this movie was ever made.

Paul Hogan (who is probably most familiar to Americans as the man who bids "G'day" and invites you to "Come Down Under" in the television commercials for the Australian Tourist Commission) stars as Mick "Crocodile" Dundee, a poacher and tour guide (Figure that one out.) who works and lives in the Aussie backwoods. The story is about how Dundee and a New York City journalist (Linda Kozlowski) happen to (What else?) fall in love, despite their remarkably different backgrounds. Yawn.

"Crocodile" Dundee attempts to be funny by first having Sue Charlton (Kozlowski) spend time interviewing "Crocodile" in his home territory, and then having Dundee spend a few weeks with Sue in her neck of the woods — the Big Apple. Why should this be funny? Well, you see, Sue has never been out of the city (She wears a dress while camping in the Australian outback with Dundee), while "Crocodile" has never been to a population center with more than 15 inhabitants. Yawn again.

The humor in "Crocodile" Dundee is at best rehearsed and at worst racist. Dundee's first innocent encounters with traffic jams, airport escalators, modern plumbing systems and other elements foreign to someone who has spent his entire life in the backwoods are at times mildly amusing and may make the audience chuckle. However, most of the time the jokes were funnier the first time we saw them, which was when those hillbillies moved to Beverly Hills.

This film is least appealing, and most appalling, when it uses racial humor. Dundee, upon meeting a limousine driver in New York, asks the chauffeur, "what tribe are you from, mate?" After being asked what he means, Dundee, who has never seen a black man as anything other than an Australian aborigine, replies, "you're black, aren't you?" Really funny, huh? Furthermore, the film portrays the aborigines as crazies who wear war paint, blue jeans and gold watches.

Dundee takes time out for some heavy bathing

The acting in "Crocodile" Dundee is just as bad as its humor. It is clear that both Hogan and Kozlowski are struggling to make their characters funny. They fail. Dundee is egotistical and chauvinistic, while Sue is a one-dimensional airhead. These are hardly funny (or likeable) characters.

If poor acting and a lousy script are the shortcomings of this film, Hogan should take blame for both. Besides playing the lead role, he also co-wrote the screenplay with Ken Shadie and John Cornell.

Actually, Hogan would probably be a fairly decent comedian if given the right material with which to work. After all, his television commercials have always been charming enough. But in "Crocodile" Dundee, the audience is given nothing more than a taste of Hogan's potential ability. After Dundee says "G'day" a few hundred times, the appeal wears thin. Furthermore, some scenes in the movie actually look like some of Hogan's television spots. Every pub Dundee visits (And there are many) seems to be serving Foster's Lager, an Australian beer. Perhaps it is just coincidence that Hogan was a television spokesman for Foster's.

"Crocodile" Dundee had the potential to present its audience with some good, original Aussie humor, but is instead disappointing and dull. If you're in the mood for something Australian, don't go see this movie.

Bring in a copy of this review of "Crocodile" Dundee and receive a complimentary bottle of Koala Springs Sparkling Mineral Water Juice imported from Australia. The Hornet offices are located in temporary building KK.

Masters

Continued from page 13

Hornet: Regular work?
Masters: What you are doing.
Johnson: Don't worry, you'll be in our paper.
Hornet: Next question, do you guys really get along...
 I wrote this down before I met you guys in person, and that's a really dumb question! You guys hate each other, I can tell.
Johnson: That's exactly right.
Hornet: You haven't had kids together, have you?
Masters: No.
Johnson: Not that my wife knows about, anyway.
Hornet: Who are your favorite comedy idols?
Masters: Pat Robertson and his wife.
Johnson: Write that shit down! That's great!
Hornet: I am writing it down!
Johnson: Take shit out of there, then!
Masters: Most comics and comedians I can enjoy on any level. Someone like Letterman I consider a comic genius, and he has certainly been a source for a lot of material for us.
Johnson: Lou Jack in Chicago.
Masters: Doctor Don in San Francisco.
Johnson: I hope Doctor Don does real well, by the way.
Masters: Me, too.
Hornet: What about Doctor Don?
Masters: Well, I guess he's not going to be retained at KFRC because they have changed their format to big band, or beautiful music.
Hornet: Ever thought about doing TV?
Johnson: We've done a lot of TV, we really have.
Masters: Did the weather on Channel 31.
Johnson: One of our claims to fame.
Hornet: I saw you on there; you were walking off.

Masters: I was the one with glasses.
Johnson: (laughing) Yeah, contacts with rims.
Hornet: How about Channel 58?
Johnson: They are our best bet, besides Sac State. Nice building.
Masters: Good coffee.
Hornet: Do you ever get really weird calls from women?
Johnson: We have to call them first.
Hornet: You guys are on drugs here!
Johnson: No, that's one thing we don't do. You can put that in, too. I think that's important.
Hornet: No drugs!!
Johnson: Donuts occasionally, and who the hell knows what is in there? Beef tallow.
Hornet: If you could be anyone, Doug, who would you be?
Masters: Nancy Reagan. (laughs) If I could be anyone, I'd be the guy who tests mattresses....anyone who sleeps a lot would be wonderful. I don't know, to tell you the truth.
Johnson: He'll probably end up with the same answer I have...
Masters: I'd probably be me, because nobody else is qualified.
Johnson: Nobody else knows the shit I've done.
Masters: Be yourself, always.
Johnson: I don't think there is any real reason to envy anyone else. We get a real taste of everything here, sort of stardom in a small way. We get paid extremely well.
Masters: What other profession can you work at and have an opportunity to participate in an elephant race? That's got to be the high point in my life, so to speak. We used to have to push them.
 (I give the guys some oxygen. We continue.)
Hornet: In a few sentences, describe the inner you.
Masters: The inner me. Bad stomach, miles of

Bad

Continued from page 13

it's 7:51 and you're either your own boss or about to be fired! Hahahahe...
Bang! goes the steering wheel.
 An old adage my grandmother taught me, "Whom the gods would destroy, they first would make pissed off," springs immediately to mind.
 No matter how much physical abuse I heap upon the wretched Chevy's steering wheel, the traffic still creeps along like some giant, three-toed tree sloth that would really love to lie down and take a nap.
 And the manners of the beast are horrible. This morning when I first left my house, I waited a lifetime for the rude motorists to let me into the stream of traffic. Finally, I closed my eyes and barged in, ignoring the shrill screech of brakes locking and the angry yells of the insensitive driver I had cut off.
 Then, the minute I really got moving, albeit with all the speed of an ecology bill through the House of Representatives, some rude fool burst into traffic in front of me, callously ignoring the shrill screech of my brakes locking up and my angry yells. Whatta jerk, huh?
 Finally, I enter the parking area proper. I find that intestines, good heavens, I don't know, pretty laid back, mellow kind of a guy? I enjoy laughing a lot.
Johnson: I think I'm a real normal guy who has always liked comedy and humor and decided to make a career out of it.
Masters: Just a couple of mild-mannered disc jockeys who can leap tall buildings at a single bound.
Johnson: I think we pretty much put out who we are the line on my parking sticker that informs me that the purchase of said sticker does not guarantee an actual place to park is not lying. It would be easier to find an honest man in Sodom and Gomorrah than to find an empty parking space at CSUS. (All right, all right, so I'm into Bible metaphors today. So sue me — everyone else does.)

 The radio: "...Honk! Honk! Yeah, kids, it's the Morning Zoo! The time is 7:56 and..."
 I give up on a real parking space and turn on the Bat-jets for that dust bowl the administration has tried to convince us is an alternate parking lot (We all know it is actually a tiny third world nation taken over for purposes of Yankee imperialist parking of large Buicks and Chevy trucks). I sprint into the dusty horizon for another day of educational pain and woe.
 I am not informed enough to understand why the administration has seen fit to create this auto chaos through over-enrollment, thus I cannot criticize it. But, Mr. Gerth, if I may offer a suggestion, if you intend to do this again next semester, would you please include padded steering wheel covers in the C.A.R. registration packets?
 I'm getting bruised knuckles, Mr. Gerth, and that gives me a bad attitude.

on the radio. I don't change my character, although it's more intense, because you're under the gun, you have a show to do, but we pretty much perform who we are.
Masters: Like when you came in this morning, we need about a fifteen minute melt-down period there before we can talk intelligently to anyone about anything, because you've had all that input and concentration. We need that little cool-off period.
Next issue: the second in a series

THE PIZZA MILL

3510 Auburn Blvd.
 Corner Watt & Auburn
CALL 483-2961
 SUN - THURS 11 a.m.-12 p.m.
 FRI - SAT 11 a.m.-1 p.m.
DAILY LUNCH SPECIAL $3.45
CALL FOR DELIVERY
ALL YOU CAN EAT! 11 a.m.-3 p.m.

$3.00 Off                  Any Extra Large Pizza                  or  $2.50 Off Any Large Pizza                  or  $1.50 Off Any Medium Pizza                  or  $1.00 Off Any Small Pizza <small>Limit: One coupon per customer</small>	Large Pizza with 2 Items $7.40  <small>Limit: One Coupon Per Customer</small> Save $5.00 on Family Special                  Reg. $21.55 Now $16.55 Choice of Extra Large Pizza 4 Single Salads and a Pitcher of Soft Drinks  <small>Limit: One Coupon Per Customer</small>
--	--

J St. VIDEO

50% off
on 2nd movie
when you rent 2

Movies with this coupon • VHS ONLY •

5640 J St.
Sacramento, Ca. 95819      455-2559

Boreal/Soda Spring Ski Area

Now accepting applications for full time/part time winter positions in ski school, ski patrol, ski shop, lift operations, food service, tickets, rentals, maintenance, motel receptionist & child care
Contact (916) 426-3666
 Mon - Fri 10-4:30

Want To Go To Hawaii In January FREE?

UndercoverWear lingerie consultants earn $50 or more per evening & free trip to Hawaii! Or, hostess a home party & receive FREE lingerie.
 Call Terri 726-0239

HOT PASTA • COOL JAZZ

DAILY NIGHTLY

ZITO'S PASTA & GRILL

2384 FAIR OAKS BLVD. 485-7100

"A deeply romantic...and sexy love story."
 —Peter Travers, PEOPLE MAGAZINE

She is the most mysterious, independent, beautiful, angry person he has ever met.

He is the first man who has ever gotten close enough to feel the heat of her anger...and her love.

WILLIAM HURT      MARLEE MATLIN

Children of a Lesser god

PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENTS A BURT SUGARMAN PRODUCTION
 A RANDA HAINES FILM CHILDREN OF A LESSER GOD PIPER LAURIE • PHILIP BOSCO
 Screenplay by HENSPER ANDERSON and MARK MEDOFF Based on the Stage Play by MARK MEDOFF
 Produced by BURT SUGARMAN and PATRICK PALMER Directed by RANDA HAINES
 A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

COMING SOON TO A THEATRE NEAR YOU.

Nursing Students:

What is the difference between Sally, Sandra and Stanley?

A. Stanley heads the world's leading test preparation organization, preparing students for over 46 years.
 B. Stanley offers audio tape lesson review and supplemental lessons at over 125 U.S. centers.
 C. Stanley's course has ten 4-hour lessons instead of five indigestible 8-hour lessons.
 D. Stanley's classes are smaller.
 E. All of the above.

Call or visit the nearest Kaplan Center for a demonstration of our superior program!

KAPLAN

STANLEY H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTERS LTD.

The world's leading test prep organization.

(415) 433-1763 One Security Pacific Place, San Francisco 94106
 (415) 927-1155 20 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, Marin 94930
 (415) 327-0841 499 Hamilton Avenue, Palo Alto 94301
 (415) 849-4044 64 Shattuck Square, Berkeley 94704
 (702) 329-5315 1931 Sutter, Reno, Nevada 89512
 (916) 753-4800 204 F Street Davis, 95616

Confetti

COMING TUESDAY OCTOBER 7th
 9:00 to 10:00

CALIFORNIA CENTERFOLDS

FIVE OF THE MOST CELEBRATED PLAYBOY CENTERFOLDS

Marlene Jansen Nov 85
 Patty Duffek May 84
 Brook Moralis (Penthouse) July 85
 Tracy Leedhelm (upcoming centerfold)
 Alona Sorenson March 83

Enjoy these tantalizing Centerfolds in a sizzling presentation of high fashion swimwear
 Dancing, Modeling and exploding with the energy that Playboy and Penthouse made famous

Advance tickets on Sale Now
 $4.00 advance $5.00 at the door

Confetti

1696 Arden Way, Sacramento 95834

presents an evening with

BOINGO BOINGO

OCT. 12, 1986
SUNDAY, 8:00pm
at the REC HALL

Tickets: Reserved
 $12.50 ASUCD/GSA/LSA
 $13.50 General
 $14.50 All, day of show
 Boingo Boingo starts promptly at 8:00 p.m.
 No cans, bottles, alcohol, video, or tape recorders.
 Subject to Search

Available at Bass, Ticketron, The UCD Campus Box Office, & the usual outlets.

'Bent'

Sherman's controversial play to open

by Elizabeth Harlan
Staff Writer

The CSUS presentation of Martin Sherman's play, "Bent," opens Oct. 23. Tickets go on sale today for all performances (Oct. 23 through Nov. 2).

Social and political controversy surround Sherman's play. Its premier was in 1978, and may be considered an encouragement to homosexuals to openly fight for their choice of lifestyle. Since the play's opening, a new movement of suppression has begun. The outbreak of AIDS and increased publicity of gay activities has generated fresh fear throughout the straight community. In answer to this fear, the U.S. Supreme Court's 1986 ruling denies homosexuals special protection under the right to privacy stated in our Constitution.

"Bent" deals with the suppression of homosexuality during the Nazi rise to power in the 1930s. While the Jewish Holocaust remains catalogued in numerous books and films, Sherman's striking theme deals with the persecution of homosexuals who ranked lowest on the Nazi list of deviants. These divisions — political dissenter, a red triangle; criminal, a green triangle; Jew, a yellow star; homosexual, a pink triangle — determined the treatment of individuals in the camps.

The plot opens in confusion. After a night on the town, Rudy (Scott Richterich) explains to Max (who had gotten high on alcohol and cocaine) the events of the previous night. Max (Michael Hunter) spent the evening in an intensive, semi-violent session of sex with a "pick-up" from a "fluff" club. They are unaware that this particular pick-up, Wolf, a member of the SA (Nazi storm troopers) is suspected of being involved in a plot against Hitler. It is the morning after The Night of the Long Knives; Ernst Rohm, head of the SA, has been shot. Hitler orders Germany purged of all homosexuals.

In the following scenes we discover what lengths Max will pursue for survival. He denies his homosexuality, demanding the preferred yellow star. Throughout the play, the German soldiers challenge him to prove his "manhood." Gradually Max is stripped of all human dignity until in the end he retaliates, grasping control over his life in a final act of free will.

Martin Sherman develops this long suppressed theme of homosexual extermination in Nazi Germany, demonstrating the control one group of society can have over another. Hitler's plan for a united special society included the elimination of anyone considered inadequate. While Rohm had been in favor, homosexuality was not only accepted but flaunted. With Rohm's death and Hitler's decree came the brutal attack on homosexuals.

Sherman's play presents a startling view of life in concentration camps, while demonstrating the hunger for power which caused the Nazis to continue persecuting individuality.

Certain scenes and some of the language may be considered offensive and all rehearsals are closed to the public. Tickets are expected to sell fast so place your reservations early.

Festival for new music

Outstanding musicians from across the United States will converge on CSUS Nov. 5-16 for the Festival of New American Music.

Celebrating its ninth year, the 1986 festival will present more than 40 concerts, previews, open rehearsals, and workshops by visiting artists and Sacramento area performers.

The featured composers this year include: George Perle, 1986 winner of the Pulitzer Prize, whose works will include two world premieres and two West Coast premieres; Libby Larsen; John Anthony Lennon; and Karl Kohn, also with a world premiere.

The 1986 festival is again associated with American Music Week, a nation-wide celebration of American music during November.

The Festival begins with an opening lecture by Perle entitled "Random Thoughts on Composition." This event is scheduled for 11 a.m. on Nov. 5 in the Music Recital Hall.

Most festival events will take place on campus. As in past years, admission to all events is free.

For more information, call 278-6514.

THE FRESHEST DOUGH • SHAKEY'S LARGE FAMILY PEPPERONI PIZZA • TOP QUALITY PEPPERONI

6.99

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY.
8 SACRAMENTO LOCATIONS

Good through October 1986

Good taste. Naturally.

• FEEDS FOUR OR MORE • NATURAL CHEESE •

2ND ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

SEPTEMBER 29TH
THRU OCTOBER 2ND

We'll have fantastic drink specials everyday plus a free glass of champagne at the door!

FOAM & CUSHION

ANNIVERSARY SALE

Are you looking for a COTTON FUTON, FOAM FOLDING BED, CONVERTIBLE FUTON FRAME, SLAT BED, FOAM MATTRESS?

If you are, NOW is the time to BUY!

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR ANNIVERSARY SALE AND SAVE!!

Futon Sofa Double Size

$235

Includes 6-layer futon, Shikibuton, Donner Frame

Love Seat #8002

Converts from sofa to bed

$179

Assorted colors
Double size sofabed

Foam Folding Futons

	REG. PRICE	SALE
COT	54	39
TWIN	74	59
DOUBLE	109	79
QUEEN	129	99

Assorted Fabrics
GREAT FOR CAMPING
GREAT FOR GUESTS

100% Cotton Futons

	REG. PRICE	SALE
6-LAYER	79	69
8-LAYER	99	79
10-LAYER	129	99
12-LAYER	149	109
14-LAYER	169	129

Double size
SIMILAR SAVINGS ON SINGLE SIZE AND QUEEN SIZE

The Newport

w/12 layer futon & cover

Easily converts from sofa to bed

	REG. PRICE	SALE	FRAME ONLY
TWIN	235	195	75
DOUBLE	285	235	95
QUEEN	315	255	105

Montreal

Futon convertible w/14 layer futon & cover

ALSO AVAILABLE IN CLEAR OR BLACK LAQUER — QUEEN SIZE AVAILABLE

REG. PRICE	SALE	SALE PRICE
425	335	199

UNF. FRAME ONLY
Double size
Unf. KD

The Brazilian

w/10 layer futon & cover

Our most popular convertible frame

Available in oak or maple

	REG. PRICE	SALE	FRAME ONLY
DOUBLE	410	329	229
QUEEN	435	359	249

Also available in black or wains

Folding Sofabed

Double Size

5-year warranty foam Donner Frame

Other sizes available

SALE 259

MATTRESSES/FUTONS

- Foam Mattresses • Air Mattresses
- Cotton Futons • Custom Sizes
- Folding Beds • Foam & Futon Covers

FOAM

- Custom Cutting • Bolsters
- Mattresses • Cushions
- Folding Beds • Sofas & Chairs
- Egg Carton • Campers

SOFA BEDS

- Folding Beds & Frames
- All Foam Sofa Beds
- Convertible Futon Sofas
- Chairs, Loveseat, Couch
- Replacement Mattress

THE AFFORDABLE ALTERNATIVE TO HEAVY SOFABEDS AND INNER SPRING MATTRESSES

NO TRANSPORTATION? NO PROBLEM!

PHONE ORDERS GLADLY ACCEPTED

FREE DELIVERY WITH $50. MIN. PURCHASE

DELIVERY AVAILABLE • CUSTOM SEWING • FREE ESTIMATES • PILLOWS & MUCH MORE!

452-3626

121 Stockton Blvd. Sacramento
Fruitridge Shopping Center

PLATFORMS/BEDS

- Closed/Open Pedestal
- Convertible Futon Frames
- Chest Beds
- Slat Platforms

Map:

under the needle

Fogerty's "Eye of the Zombie"

John Fogerty
"Eye of the Zombie" Warner Bros.

by Lori K. Smith
Staff Writer

The local disc jockeys say John Fogerty's recent album, "Eye of the Zombie," flaunts the ugliest album cover that they've seen in years. This is true. The cover features a close-up of a face that appears half-cat and half-man. But when you're singing about the plight of humanity — as Fogerty is — it's not a pretty picture. The entire album is a storm cloud on the horizon. This theme is present in most of the songs, such as "Headlines," "Violence is Golden," and "Eye of the Zombie." The tune, "Change in the Weather," probably sums it up best:

Look at the people
Terror in their eyes
Bad business comin'

Can't be denied
They're runnin' with the dogs
Afraid to die

"Change in the Weather" is riddled with keyboard riffs and is a good, solid song. However, it's hard not to think of Creedence Clearwater Revival when you hear Fogerty's distinctive voice. It is difficult not to compare "Change in the Weather" to CCR classics, such as "Who'll Stop the Rain," and "Fortunate Son." But that's OK. Fogerty's new tune can stand on its own.

"Knockin' On Your Door" is a refreshing change in beat from the rest of the album. The brass back-up throughout its chorus makes "Knockin' On Your Door" a tune the Top 40 audience could get attached to.

"Wasn't That A Woman" has a bluesy feel to it. One might almost say it has a funky sound. The song has some strong bass riffs and is catchy. However, the lyrics leave something to be desired:

Wasn't that a woman
Watch me, watch me, watch me
Runnin' down the line
Wasn't that a woman
Ain't she fine, ain't she fine
"Soda Pop" is a song to strut by. Its sarcasm isn't as strong as the sarcasm in "Violence is Golden," but it does express Fogerty's thoughts on today's commercialism:

Play a little rock 'n' roll music
Tease 'em with a tune
Show a couple old time pictures
From the baby boom

While Fogerty hits his listeners hard in the beginning, he doesn't let them walk away feeling depressed and frustrated. The last three songs — "Wasn't That A Woman," "Soda Pop," and "Sail Away" — ease the listeners out of the album and back home to safety.

The "Eye of the Zombie" album doesn't reach out and grab its listeners. It's more subtle, like the feeling of soaking in a warm tub. It's not hot but that's the pleasure — there aren't too many surprises from Fogerty here.

Tina Turner
"Break Every Rule" Capitol

by Shawn Ryley
Editorial Staff

She still has the hair, the pouty lips and the hot legs, but does Tina Turner still have it? Can she still satisfy the public after reaching superstar status with her 1984 hit album "Private Dancer"? The answer is yes. Her new LP, "Break Every Rule," is not comparable, but it should be successful with the masses.

Only the overtly critical can disparage "Break Every Rule." Quality has gone into each song. Turner had a lot of help. Mark Knopfler, Rupert Hine, Bryan Adams and Bob Clearmountain produce some tracks. Steve Winwood, Phil Collins, Branford Marsalis, Jamie West-Oram (the Fixx's guitarist), Adams, Hine and Knopfler played instruments on some songs. Knopfler, Adams, Hine and David Bowie wrote lyrics.

Now can Tina miss with such a strong line-up? Alfalfa could have a profitable album with this crew. Maybe Tina should count her blessings that the record company could corral such a distinguished group of musicians. With the weight of "Private Dancer" on her shoulders, they probably had to. Regardless, the record is worth purchasing. There aren't songs like "Private Dancer," "Better Be Good To Me" or "What's Love Got To Do With It," but each of those turned into Top 40 fluff anyway, so this LP is appreciated even more.

There is one mystifying aspect to "Break Every Rule." What overall theme is Turner trying to establish? In some sublime, nutty way it appears she wants to get a point across to the masculine gender. So many of the songs present images of male/female relationships. In fact, one song is called "Typical Male," and another simply "Girls." This would lead one to believe she's still hurt by the way her former husband Ike treated her during their stormy marriage.

Turner's producers use a fresh approach to the songs on "Break Every Rule." Unlike so many record makers who try to eclecticize their past successes, Turner's overseers create a versatile nuance. Some songs included are "What You Get Is What You See," a tune that embodies her wild style; "Afterglow" which reminds the listener of vintage Steely Dan (with Turner's voice); "Break Every Rule," a heartfelt ballad that utilizes her coarse, charismatic voice to the utmost; and "Overnight Sensation," a tune which could also be called "The Mark Knopfler Song," since the Dire Straits leader produced, wrote and played guitar on it. It contains typical Knopfler influence, but in all cases that's good, and so is the song.

"Break Every Rule" might not provide the same delicacies "Private Dancer" did, nevertheless the album holds a captive audience. "Break Every Rule" is the product of a superstar singer, supported by a awesome group of performers, who in turn recorded a solid LP — possibly solid gold. Only Dionne Warwick knows.

Daryl Hall
"Three Hearts In The Happy Ending Machine" RCA

by Randy Myers
Special to the Hornet

Daryl Hall's second solo album, "Three Hearts in the Happy Ending Machine," should encourage Hall to make albums without the help of fellow musician John Oates. Put more accurately, Hall would benefit the next time out by producing and writing his own music without anyone's assistance.

With Eurythmics' David A. Stewart sharing the producing spotlight, Hall has created an album that undermines his own intelligence and craftsmanship as a musician and lyricist.

When Hall is in charge of writing and producing the songs on his latest album, his music and lyrics are some of the finest bits to come from the pop industry's treadmill. But when he enlists the aid of Stewart, his songs become banal, catchy dance songs. The communion of these two artists is the downfall of this album.

The infrequent songs that are written and produced by Hall alone are the best. The moody "What's Gonna Happen to Us" accurately and powerfully ponders about how love will prevail in a society torn apart by self-doubt and inactivity.

In his next solo effort, and hopefully there will be another, Hall should have confidence in his own musical ability and rely on that, rather than the talents of someone else.

Where the delightful food of the Orient combines with the life style of the West.

YOKOHAMA
JAPANESE RESTAURANT

Sushi • Udon • Donburi

Open 7 Days A Week

	Lunch	Dinner
M-Th	11:30-2:00	5-9
Friday	11:30-2:00	5-10
Sat.		5-10
Sun.		5-9

5 minutes from campus
1453 Howe Ave.
Sacramento, CA 95825
927-5311

C O M E D Y

Capital

Saturday
October 4
9:00 P.M.

STARRING
RSVP IMPROVE and Bentoni
plus
Special Musical Guests

WITH Nate Shiner
and Giselle Moore

$5.00 Advance
$8.00 Door
442-6082
Call for reservations
First come/first seated
Cover charge $2.00, before show time
TICKETS: $5.00, $8.00, $10.00

Emcee
Kathie Little

1225 K ST. MALL

Jazzbird
PRESENTS

Coming

Indiana Jones &
the Temple Of Doom
Santa Claus The Movie
Police Academy III
At Close Range

VCR Rental
$5.00 per day

No Membership
Fee
No Deposit

Riverpark
5493 Carlson Dr.
(4 blocks north of Fair Oaks Blvd.)
736-3148

Hours
Sun-Thur 11-10
Fri-Sat 10-11

Now Showing

Wildcats
American Anthem
Pretty In Pink
Nomads Down & Out In Beverly Hills

Back to School
Special

Sept. 2 - Oct. 1
94¢ Mon-Thur
$1.41 Fri-Sun

Rosemont
On the corner of
La Riviera Dr.
& Folsom Blvd.
361-1054

Hours
Sun-Thur 10-11
Fri-Sat 10-11

OPEN TONIGHT! and Every Night

Sacramento's
Foremost Coffee
Roaster And Espresso Bar.

- Coffee Drinks
- Assorted Pastries
- Gelato
- Sal's Famous Cal-Mex Tamales

444-JAVA
1800 Capitol Avenue, Sacramento
INDOOR AND OUTDOOR SEATING

SUN-THURS 7 am - 11 pm ■ FRI-SAT 7 am - Midnight

Java City is proud to have its fresh roasted coffee served in the Union Station and in the Pub.

ENCORE
hair designers

929-1316

478 Howe Ave. at Fair Oaks in University Village

20% Discount
On complete Hair Cut,
Shampoo and Blow Dry
-Color - Perms with Student I.D.

GRE

KAPLAN

STANLEY H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER LTD.

The world's leading test prep organization.

ENROLLING NOW! Visit us at our center,
204 F Street, Davis, California 95616
Or call us days, evenings or even weekends.
Our phone number (916) 753-4800.

UNIVERSITY DENTAL GROUP

When . . . You Really Need A "Friend"

Back To School
Special

X-Ray
Exam
Cleaning
$35.00

University Dental Group

Campus Commons Medical Building
#2 Scripps Drive, Sacramento, CA

(916) 929-3737

ASI Approved
Student Discount

WOULD YOU LIKE TO LEARN SOMETHING ABOUT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ?

FREEDOM FROM THE PAST

PIPEDREAM OR DIVINE POSSIBILITY?

- A FREE PUBLIC CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE
- THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9th, 8:00 PM
- AT THE SACRAMENTO BOARD OF REALTORS AUDITORIUM - 2003 HOWE AVENUE (across Howe from K Mart)
- GIVEN BY BRIAN D. TALCOTT, C.S. OF BERKELEY, CALIFORNIA

A MEMBER OF THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE BOARD OF LECTURESHIP, BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

ALL ARE WELCOME
CHILD CARE AVAILABLE
AMPLE FREE PARKING

No Collections or Donations

SPONSORED BY FIFTH CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, SACRAMENTO

Hornet

Classified

SERVICES

WRITING SERVICE Need help expressing yourself clearly on paper? Call Lisa. I organize thoughts, correct spelling and grammar, and edit all kinds of papers and theses. Foreign students welcomed. Reasonable rates! 457-3844

PROFESSORS EXAM FILES for nine required Engineering courses: chemistry, physics, calculus, EIT. Available at The Book Depot, 7840 LaRiviera Drive

MONEY FOR COLLEGE Let SCHOLASTIC RESEARCH Scholarship Matching Service find the right financial aid funding for you. Minimum 5 sources guaranteed. For free info call or write: SCHOLASTIC RESEARCH 293 Andrews St. Auburn, CA 95603. (916) 888-6468

Up Against The Classes Academic Myths vs. The Job Market? Ask yourself: (1) Turned out on college prof's teaching academic garbage? Working part or full time just to keep up with overpriced academic tuition costs? (2) Do you honestly remember what you've learned from last semester, or were you more prone to beating the class grading game? Have you discovered that half the subjects you could have taught yourself? (3) "Ticked off" that your required subjects supposedly graduate, have no relation to the real job market world? It's a fact! Then check out the "Real World" with our free self-taught book Beating the Academic Game vs. The Job Market. We'll prove we can teach you to get the job you want! Enclose $2.47 donation to cover printing to Consumer Advocacy, Fight Back, P.O. Box 161604, Sacramento, CA 95816

PERSONALS

Christians w/m 27 B.A. Econ. & Bus. Federal Acctg. Tech. athletic, tanned, 5'10", 160 lbs., dark hair, hazel eyes, likes movies, tennis, running, softball, shopping, talking, reading, wants to date (for fun, friendship, possibly more). Christian s/w/ladies, ages 22-27, employed in or training for education, health, or service occupations. Double dates O.K. Write P.O. Box 1713, Carmichael, CA 95609-1713. All letters answered.

W/M, 26, very lonely and in prison. No friends or family, seeking someone who cares. Ken Helms, P.O. Box 607, C.C.N.s. Please send stamp for prompt reply. 89701

STAFF

S.P.W. Let's Do It In The Air Again: Bunny

S.P.W. I forgot my nappies. H.B.S.L.

Variety — Aren't you tired of outrageous prices and only biweekly service? Let's utilize the Hornet (at least for off weeks) and make THESE pages burn with our sparks. — Persephone

I.B.O. Members & Party Goers I see some pretty weird things going on there. I.B.O. for real or what? Respond: "I Spy"

Dr. #4 — Do you have "I Love Dr. Who" bumper stickers? How much are they? — Persephone

Laura Albright Just testing whether you read the Hornet — Hope you're feeling better. Call me, babe! Jenny-Bob

Sorrow is the only thing that both unifies and isolates all of mankind. — Persephone

Ward W. Hi! I saw Scott the other day and it just reminded me that I haven't seen you in a long time. I'm still at The State Hornetdog. I think of you whenever I hear Joe Jackson, even though you're probably not into him anymore. Take it easy. — Jenny

POTATO LOVER GROWS MOBILE

POTATO PATCH Sacramento's Ken BARNETT loves potatoes. So much so that he has grown a sizable patch in his 1979 Dodge van. The potatoes grow in some five yards of quality top soil in the bed of the van.

BARNETT said the crop yields about ten bushels each year. BARNETT claims the yield is so high because of a special soil amendment. He said the amendment is produced locally by a close friend of his, Dis CHARGELANI. BARNETT and CHARGELANI refused to elaborate on the amendment.

BARNETT is able to grow the spuds year round due to a unique heating and artificial lighting system. BARNETT refused to disclose any of the details of the potato hot house set up.

WHEN asked why he decided to grow potatoes in the van, BARNETT said, "I never go anywhere without my potatoes."

American Cancer Society

TYPING SERVICES

ANITA'S TYPING/WORDPROCESSING

Next to CSUS $1.75 dbl. spaced page. 18 years academic experience. Expert editing. Fast turnaround. accurate, letter quality print. Term papers, theses, resumes. 363-3566

Prof. Thesis Typing IBM W/P. Books, Manuscripts, Term Papers. Call Edith 731-8981 after 4:00 p.m. or weekends

Call Andrea. Thesis term papers, etc. 487-9334. Word Processing

TYPING/WORD PROCESSING

On Campus — ASI Typing Service. University Union, 3rd floor. Professional, fast accurate. Come in or call 278-6276 or 278-7252

COMPLETE TYPING SERVICE

2 min. from CSUS. Last minute rush specialist. 383-1919

PROFESSIONAL TYPING/WORD PROCESSING Exceptionally accurate, fast, efficient. Former secretary w/30 years experience. Call Vi for your term papers. 448-4013

WORDPROCESSING

2 professional typists - will do most dbl. sp. papers $1.00/pg. - $5.00 minimum. 383-6598 989-4000

WORK WANTED Journalism major will type and edit manuscripts, term papers, letters, envelopes, cards. Reasonable rates. Call Kathleen 332-8368

AUTOMOTIVE

'76 Fiat Sedan for sale. Econ. Runs good. $700 or b/o. Free kittens. Call Dave at Rosa Ranch. 929-6180

'84 Buick Riviera

46 Wildcat Eng. Beautiful! $2500. 973-8293

MUST SELL! 1982 Kawasaki 500 Ltd. Low miles, good condition. Black and Red. Needs new chain. 484-7621 or 451-4819. leave message

CHEAP WHEELS Honda Express 500CC Moped. Kick start with baskets for books. Looks and runs great. $200. 923-2811

1981 DATSUN 280ZX 2+2 with T-Tops. Only 48,000 miles by original owner. AM/FM stereo/cassette, cruise control, and more. New Goodyear Eagles, battery, and clutch. Rebuilt 5-speed transmission. Copper brown with pin-striping. Asking $7500, which is fair value price. Days 323-2876. Days/Eves 961-9630

250 Suzuki for sale - "1983" If interested call 362-8152 $700 or best offer

1972 Pinto Runabout - Good condition, runs excellent, dependable, rebuilt, auto. AM-FM call. Luggage rack. $1,200 invested, will sell for $700. 944-3542

70 Ford Galaxy 500. 302 engine, 4 door. Very good condition including tires. Phone 422-8779

79 Toyota Corolla, automatic. Outstanding maintenance, runs perfect. $2,000. 364-5102 nite. 454-2222 #1193 day. Martha

HELP WANTED

Excel. P.T. openings for students. It's SKOL Pizza -deli - Catering. 1833 Fulton Ave. We need pizza makers - deli - delivery personnel. Day & night shifts. Auto a must - looking for management potential. Apply 1:30-5 p.m. M-Sat

$60 per 100 envelopes stuffed. $240 - 480 weekly. Homeworkers needed for Industrial Project - Stuffing Envelopes. 6 wanted. Send stamped self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-T, Costa, California 91310

Pizza Cooks and Waitresses wanted

No experience necessary. Rico's Pizza

8907 Folsom Blvd. 361-7771

Jewelry Sales Seeking enthusiastic persons for part-time sales positions. Phone 921-1074

Wanted: Student who likes children to care for our toddler. Tuesdays and/or Thursdays this semester from 4:30 to 5:15. $20 a week plus dinner. Close to CSUS. Call 451-8094

Breakdancers, mimes, jugglers, musicians and clowns - part-time employment during breakfast and lunch periods. Call Anja 441-4226 or 395-0490 at Nicole's Restaurant.

Local Artists are urged to display their artworks at Restaurant - Gallery - Nicole's Restaurant. Call Anja 441-4226 or 395-0490

Cashiers wanted with some restaurant and management experience. Call Sue at Nicole's Restaurant 441-4226

Wanted: Babysitter. Eves wk ends. 15 mo girl. Land Park. Ref. reqd. Eves 444-4404

Homeworkers wanted - Top Pay - Work at Home - Call Cottage Industries - (405) 360-4062

FOR SALE

SELL IT FAST IN HORNET CLASSIFIEDS!!

Letter Quality Printers, Diablo or Qume mech. - 45 cps b.o. Working television 912C terminal $70.00. HP 45 $5.00 Desk $40. Microfilm Reader $50.00. Call Dave 362-3023

Science Calculator T151 w/printer - sell sep. or together. Printer may be used with T1 58-59. Call Dave 362-3023

Trumpet - Gids Studio - Electronic pickup - 3 mutes. 3 mouth pieces - stand - trumpet - snake - nice case. $300.00 or B.O. Don't be shy. Dave 362-2023

Sofa - 7' contemporary, good condition. $75.00. 2 19" color T.V.'s. $50.00 each. 455-1256

TRAVEL

FRIENDSHIP FINDERS

is offering a Tahoe Casino Best Saturday Refund Trip for only $10.50 roundtrip Greyhound express. Receive Saturday's $15 CASH RETURN Plus FREE $5.00 food credit. Also, Apple Hill wine tasting stop. For more information call (916) 921-0118

ROOMMATES

2 br. available in 3 br. 2 1/2 bath townhouse. $225 mo. each. 1-3 utilities each. Females only. Call Carla 482-8669

TYPING SERVICE

KEYSTROKES

AS LOW AS $1.95 PER PAGE Now two (2) convenient locations. Experienced word processing of term papers and theses. Resumes. 937 Howe Ave., Suite A. 921-2802. 2330 Alhambra Bl., Ste. 100. 451-4291

Typewriters:

(Due to school budget cuts) Royal offers "Brand New Electrics," with internal correction, error-out, electric carriage return, segment shift, 66 character keyboard. $159.00! List $289.00! 5 year Warranty. Check, credit cards, COD or Lay-away. Free Delivery! 1-714-546-4425 ANYTIME!

$1.00 PER PAGE

Fleshman's Word Processing. No job too big or small. Professional, accurate, experienced typist. Close to Sac State. 363-3918

Self-Service Computer Facilities
laserprinting
word processing
Desktop Publishing
428 J St.
Sacramento
(916) 447-9212

Accurate, Professional secretary will do typing and editing of manuscripts, reports, legal papers and resumes on word processor. Some overnight service available. Dictaphone transcription possible. Reasonable rates. Quality Service.

961-7230

RIVERBRIDGE APARTMENTS

1 FREE MONTH'S RENT

with a One Year lease

- Recreation Room
- Pool
- Sauna
- Study Room (24 hour)
- Security Guard (7 days a week)
- BBQ Pit
- Locked Bike Area
- Laundry Facilities
- Weight Room
- Minutes from Campus (just across the Guy West Bridge)
- Bicycle or walk to Class
- Court Yard Area

Dormitory style apartments available. Also . . . month to month leases on one or two bedroom, one bath apartments starting at $175. per occupant.

RIVERBRIDGE APARTMENTS

1025 University Avenue
Sacramento, Ca 95825

(916) 924-8775

TYPING SERVICE

KEYSTROKES

RESUMES AS LOW AS $12.00 Highlight your best assets & abilities. Now at 2 locations. 937 Howe Ave., Suite A. 921-2802. 2330 Alhambra Bl., Ste. 100. 451-4291

A.S.A.P. TYPING & EDITING GRADUATE - UNDERGRAD - Personal - Business. Overnight available. Charts and Graphs. E.Z. Freeway Access. 5 years of References. 725-1844

Word processing

TechniType. Theses, term papers, etc. Professional, reas. student rates, quick turnaround. All formats avail. Satis. Guar. 331-8668, 8 a.m. - 8 p.m.

DOES YOUR RESUME EFFECTIVELY HIGHLIGHT YOUR QUALIFICATIONS?

Be Prepared for On-Campus Interviews!

Free Evaluation by Quality Plus, Resume Specialists, 3426 American River Drive 971-3762

Amanuensis

Word Processing Service

FAST • ACCURATE • RELIABLE

Term Papers, Theses, Resumes. Convenient Location. 5 min. from CSUS Campus

Donna Johnston, Owner. 580 University Ave. Ste 204B. Sacramento, CA 95825. (916) 922-6501

Resumes

Do it right the first time with a PROFESSIONAL RESUME. Hundreds of fellow students already have. Why not you too! FREE CONSULTATION, Lowest prices, and nationwide, lifetime up-dating. 485-3505 PROFESSIONAL RESUME & WRITING SERVICE

SERVICES

STUDENT DENTAL OPTICAL PLAN. ENROLL NOW! Save your teeth, eyes and money too. For information and brochure see A.S. office or call (408) 371-6811.

RESEARCH PAPERS. 15,278 Available! Catalog $2.00. Research, 11322 Idaho, #206XT, Los Angeles 90025. TOLL-FREE HOT LINE: (213) 477-8226 Ext. 33. VISA/MC or COD.

People Who Love Too Much Workshops and on-going therapy groups for men and women. BRN Provider #07055. Call Linda Paoli LCSW or Charlene Conley MSW at 972-7831 for more information.

Microwave Oven Rentals

3 months for $33

Refrigerator Rentals (Compact & Portable)

3 months for $18

Ideal for dorms, frat houses, sororities, apartments, offices, boarding houses.

SPECIAL LOW STUDENT RATES

Free Delivery, Pick-Up

For Information Call

Appliance Rentals

(916) 456-0707

HELP WANTED

Work Study Jobs

2 - Clerical
1 - Grounds
2 - Custodian
Rate per hour $4.96
Call extension x6421 for more information

Internships Available

with UC Student Association in Sacramento in the areas of legislation, university policy making, collective bargaining, media relations and more. Earn academic credit. Call 447-UCSA.

Telephone Appointment Setters

Commission Basis. Minimum Guarantee — first 2 weeks. Pleasant office. Professional consulting firm. Must be comfortable calling high level executives. Call between 10:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Ask for Sharon 925-1545.

Wanted

Part time men or women for sales positions. Communication Service "State-of-the-Art." Commission basis. Work on campus. Car not necessary. Set your own hours. Great Income.

1-800-872-7079

Keep-In-Touch

A voice mail message service

End-of-Year Clearance Sale

Sails —
From $80

Gaastra - North - Neil - Pryde
Boards from $475 complete
Marker - Marlin - Sailboard - Cobra - Aitken - Hi-Tech
Free Delivery to C.S.U.S.
Call Bob 916-544-0769

Ticket To Amusement

Wednesday:

...German Expressionist Paintings from the Morton D. May Collection, will be exhibited in the Herald Wing of the Crocker Art Museum, 216 O Street, through Oct. 19.

...The Nut Tree, located off I-80 at the Monte Vista exit in Vacaville, will hold a Pumpkin Patch Festival through Oct. 18. Open from 9 a.m. until dark. Admission is free. Call (707) 448-6411 for more details.

...Sherlock, a musical adventure about Sherlock Holmes, will be presented by the Chautauqua Playhouse, Engle Road, Carmichael. Performances run through Oct. 12. Call 489-7529 for more information.

...Open Mike Comedy every Wednesday at Metro Bar and Grill, 1225 K St. Call 447-3837 for more information.

...Theatre El Dorado presents The Crucible by Arthur Miller at the El Dorado County Fairgrounds on Placerville Drive. Show times are 8 p.m. and 2:30 for matinees. Tickets are $8 general, $6 for students and seniors. Call 626-3063 for more information.

Calendar

...Andreas Vollenweider will appear at Freeborn Hall, UCD, at 8 p.m.

...Eddie Money will appear at the Sacramento Community Center, in the theatre at 8 p.m. Tickets are $15.50 reserved.

...The Holiday Inn Holiday presents Frank Sinatra, Jr. Tickets are available at Tower.

Friday:
...The Autumn Senior Ball will be held at the Elks Lodge, on Florin and Riverside, at 7:30 p.m. Call 449-5462 for more information.

...Come see "New Jazz in the Windham Style, performed by The Bruce Forman Group, at the Palms Public Playhouse, 726 Road 103, Davis. Show starts at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $7.50. Call 756-9901 for more information.

...The Harvest Festival and Christmas Crafts Market will be held at the Sacramento Community Center, in the Exhibit Hall through Oct. 5.

...The Sacramento Symphony presents Garrick Ohlsson, pianist, at the Sacramento Community Center, in the theatre.

...Julio Iglesias is in concert at the Concord Pavilion, Concord, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $25 reserved and $15.50 lawn. Saturday show also.

...The Odd Couple by Neil Simon will be presented by the Stagedoor Comedy Playhouse at the Playhouse located in the Sacramento Inn Plaza. Shows will be performed every Friday and Saturday through Nov. 1. Tickets are $7. Call 927-0942 for more information.

...The 14th Annual Sacramento Tennis Championships will be held through Oct. 5. Call 449-5197 for more information.

...Come spend an evening with James Taylor at the Cal Expo Amphitheatre at 8 p.m. Tickets are $16.50 reserved.

Sunday:
...Mary Terril, pianist, will appear at the Crocker Art Museum, 216 O Street at 3 p.m. Call 449-5423 for more information.

Monday:
...The Markham and Broadway Community Concerts Subscription

Series will be held at the Sacramento Community Center in the theatre. Call 449-5181 for more details.

Tuesday:

...David Copperfield will appear at the Marin Civic Auditorium, Marin at 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $23.50 and $18.50.

On Campus

Wednesday:

...Come listen to soul funk by Fuchsia at 11:30 a.m. at the South Lawn, University Union.

...Daryla Griser will appear at 8 p.m. in the Coffee House, University Union.

Thursday:

...Acoustic rock played by DMC, 8 - 10:30 p.m., at the Coffee House, University Union.

Friday:

...Tuxedo Junction presents The Bobs, "Nu-Wave a capella," at 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. in The Pub. Tickets are $4.50 students, $6 general.

Monday:

...Football: San Diego vs. Seattle, at 6 p.m. in the Coffee House, University Union.

Tuesday:

...Ron Calderon will appear at the Coffee House, University Union, at 8 p.m.

Casting call at Garbeau's

Garbeau's Dinner Theatre will hold open auditions for John van Druten's magical love story, "Bell, Book and Candle."

Auditions will be Oct. 6 from 7 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Call-backs are Oct. 7, from 7 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

CSUS Professor Gerard Larson will guest direct "Bell, Book and Candle." A photo and resume are requested. Roles are available for two women (ages: 25-30 and 45-60) and three men (ages: mid-twenties, 30-40 and 45-60).

Garbeau's is located in the historic Nimbus Winery, Highway 50 at Hazel Avenue. For more information, please call 985-6361.

Bono didn't get much exercise until keggling became popular.

LOOKING FOR A DENTIST?

INTRODUCTORY SPECIAL

ONLY $1000
Value $50
Good for EACH Family Member

- Complete Dental Check-Up
- Complete full mouth x-rays
- Complete examination of teeth
- Oral Cancer examination
- Diagnosis & estimates of one or more planned treatments

Brian O'Leary, DDS
87 Scripps Drive #314
Near Howe & Fair Oaks Blvd.

We Welcome

929-7982

Coupon

1/2 OFF

FOR REGULAR ONE HALF HOUR OF ELECTROLYSIS —

Call: Jan Strasser, R.E.
483-1593

Limit: 1 Coupon per client
NEW CLIENTS ONLY

Coupon

Are You A "LETTERHEAD"?

Are you part of the ever growing crowd of late night? Do you break out into a cold sweat, unless you get your nightly dose of David? Do you thrive to see what bizarre thing may happen next... If so, you must be a "Late Night "LETTERHEAD"!

SHIRT COLOR: Oxford Grey — 50% Cotton/50% Polyester
Sizes/Qty: SM MED LG X-LG

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____
Amount Enclosed $ _____ Allow 4-6 weeks for delivery
Send Check or Money Order to: Goen Brizzy 5086 Valley Forge, N. Highlands, CA 95660

5520 H St
Sacramento
736-0147

Beat

NEW • USED • RENTALS RECORDS
CDs - CASSETTES

AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION
The Christmas Seal Program

Wild Wednesday!

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE!

At Domino's Pizza, we recognize the need to spice up what many people feel is the most hum-drum day of the week — Wednesday.

Stuck directly between the weekend past and the one to come, Wednesday, it's clear, lacks excitement.

That's why Domino's Pizza has established Wild Wednesday: We aim to add some life to your midweek and give you great savings as well.

Call Us!

Sacramento
451-0212
5642 J Street
Serving Cal State-Sacramento

Hours:
4:30pm-1:00am Sun.-Thurs.
4:30pm-2:00am Fri. & Sat.

Our drivers carry less than $20.00.
Limited delivery area.
©1986 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

Menu

All Pizzas Include Our Special Blend of Sauce & 100% Real Dairy Cheese

The ExtravaganZZa™
Limited portions of 9 items for the price of 5:
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Black Olives, Ground Beef, Onions, Sausage, Green Peppers, Ham and Extra Cheese
12" ExtravaganZZa™ $11.10
16" ExtravaganZZa™ $15.20

Domino's Deluxe
5 items for the price of 4:
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Onions, Green Peppers, and Sausage
12" Deluxe $10.15
16" Deluxe $13.85

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12" cheese $6.35
16" cheese $8.45

Additional Items
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Black Olives, Onions, Green Peppers, Ground Beef, Sausage, Ham, Jalapenos, Pineapple, Double Cheese and Extra Thick Crust
12" pizza $ .95 per item
16" pizza $1.35 per item

Coke® available.

Prices do not include applicable sales tax. We accept checks.

Wild Wednesday!

Get any 12" 2-item pizza for only $5.99! One coupon per pizza. Offer valid Wednesdays only through 12-15-86.

Fast, Free Delivery™
451-0212
5642 J Street

Name _____
Phone _____